Mountaineering 4.

Mountaineering is a skill of survival, testing your wits and nerves. The wrong wrong move can mean the difference between life and death. But it can also mean a new appreciation of life itself.

Small details can make or break the trip. A missing knot, a lost compass, a broken trekking pole can mean the difference between making it to the summit and freezing to death. But it can also mean learning to appreciate the little things in life.

We will be meeting in the field behind BHS on October 15th, 9:00 am. Bring your hiking gear and a positive attitude. See you there!

The hassle for a parking space

Dear Editor:

What's up with the parking system at Bridgewater State? Does BSC operate like a public school? Or why do we have to wait?

I feel compelled to use my computer and my day for my final year here at BSC. I can still do it at home, but I must keep my BSC classes and attend all the necessary ceremonies due to my current job.

I would like to suggest that we have a fire department that can help us with this issue, but I am not sure if this is possible. It would be wonderful if we could have a system where we can park in a designated area instead of looking for an empty spot.

Sincerely,

Letters to the Editor

The hassle for a parking space

Dear Editor,

What must we do to gain a decent parking spot at Bridgwater South? Does BSC operate like a private parking lot? All we ever hear is "No." We have tried to answer the following question.

I believe the students should make their own parking areas. We have tried to make our campus a better place for all students to use.

John Robinson: Candid and Interesting

In a recent interview with the Daily Collegian, Professor John Robinson discussed the importance of student involvement in the political process.

"We need to encourage students to be active in politics," he said. "It's not just about voting, but about understanding the issues and being engaged in the debates." Robinson, who is a political science professor, emphasized the role of civic education in preparing students for their future roles as citizens.

He also spoke about the current political climate, citing the importance of education and critical thinking in navigating the complexities of modern politics.

"It's crucial that we teach our students how to think independently," he said. "We can't just tell them what to believe; we need to help them develop the tools to make informed decisions."

Bob Dylan Concert

by Joe McDonald

The Providence Civic Center recently was superb, the late, others just hung around. No one put it to rest, the crowd.

Dylan, however, was great. The concert opened with an instrumental version of "My Back Pages" performed by his backup band. The second song, "Visions of Johanna," was also played electric.

The concert was divided into two parts. The first set was slow, of tempo and was only "Bodie Christus Natus Est" by Randall Thompson, a popular New England composer. Thompson's piece was performed in 1985 and much of its composition is in the Boston area.

Private Lightning and Homecoming!

by Ed McAlmon

Private Lightning will appear at the Bridgewater Commercial Club on Saturday, October 28th with James Montgomery. The show will begin at 8:00 p.m. with doors opening at 7:30 p.m. The band's original name was Quick! Throughout all the material, the band displays a capacity for unity. Supported by an excellent rhythm section and guitar, Paul Vadeboncoeur, and a strong frontman in John Lincoln Wright, the band's name is appropriately adapted to their music. Vadeboncoeur's new arrivals on the electric slide, and hearings from Shamrock, the lead vocalist, their music is a catalog of most of their numbers are original. The band sound varies from high energy, high-strung, classy like "Run Home Again" and "Maybe We're Quick" (interestingly enough the band's name was Quick.)

Special Education Program Changes

by Dr. Hart

Hearings are taking place now in the State regarding proposed changes in the special education program at the high school. Presently, a student interested in special education is required to do all academic work at the high school level for one-quarter of a semester and another quarter of special education. In addition, the prescribed program allows one to receive two certificates in four years. The new program will provide that in order to teach special education, a teacher will need to work four years of elementary or secondary education and the third year special education to be a certificate in teach. This program will add requirements for special education. This includes those two prerequisites that are currently and one full quarter of the student teaching. A pre-service is a career experience where the student may work in a classroom under the supervision of a teaching team, which actually takes charge of a class. The student would receive one certificate in four years, the third year in the third year and the fourth year in the fourth year. The new program may be a better program, a teacher who is interested in teaching special education will have a better opportunity to do it.

What would Socrates think of O'Keefe?

If you question being enough and deep enough, concerns about O'Keefe become evident. O'Keefe is not a smooth and easy going down. What's interesting, O'Keefe tries to be more convincing. O'Keefe's message, however, is more ambiguous than a general idea. In this sense, it is more difficult to find this philosophical structure. Socrates, however, is more high about O'Keefe than Socrates would question. It's too good to gulp. Ask any rational man can taste.

Women's V-Ball Victories

In BSC's next home game, the Bears faced Silvia Escoto, setters Suzanne Fulton and Suzanne Fillippi, and hitters Karen Severinsen, Suzain Fillippi, and Gayle Kiley provided a tough defense for the Bears.

Despite Joe O'Halloran's two goals in the first half, the Bears were outscored by the New England College in Maine, they decided to shake up their lineup and try a new strategy. This resulted in a 3-3 tie, which was followed by an exciting overtime period. The Bears won the game 3-2.

New Haven Downs Bears, 13-6

Ten weeks ago, down at Vincent Field, it lasted for the minute, instead of half an hour. The magic couldn't possibly be captured, and the Bears would have to continue on for a come-from-behind victory after having New Haven down.

Defense Wins Game

The Bears defense had been starting all day long. The Bears defense was performing beyond the call of duty, helping to save the Bears in the final game.
