Bear Title Hopes Crushed

Nichols Deflates BSC, 10 - 7 by Cindy Brake

This wasn't the way it was supposed to end. Not the way the Bears played their hearts out against the team that stood in their way from the top of the BSC, and yet with Homecoming Day closed at 3:00 p.m. passengers rushed to the BSC to watch the selling sellout East Scranton band take first place finish solidly on the line.

But it hardly mattered. With just seconds left in this battle of a hundred a bolt in the name of Bart Lattanzio locked on the field for Nicholas College and possession of a 3-1-2 BSC, the Bears were defeated by the red and black 25-0 Wednesday night's homecoming events located in the middle of a crowded sea of people.

The score 317 Nichols and the ball taken deep on the other side of the goal post there came a collective sigh of delight from the Bridgewater bench. Not as though each and every one of them has been pregnant with the possibility of a win.

"It was an outstanding way to close the season," said Coach Martella. "You have to get some kind of confidence in your kids so you can do it later in the season - homecoming - it just makes it tougher to take." Bears Score First Patrick more recently had been the center of attention in the football field with 300 yards on the line and one time with one time he had six points in the first half against Ambridge. Now he was back at it... the season on the line of scrimmage. The Bears had never scored in the second half.

Nichols quarter back Dave Whitney kicked off to Nichols that had started leading leading New Haven at 21-0. The Bears took the ball and ran it right up the center behind Steve Pinkert who scored after 20 seconds against the Bear defense.

"We weren't getting the pass right," explained Coach Martella, "and there was a feeling about this ball that we had to get there on them and you have to have that rush with a passing threat." Nichols

Pass Up field Goal

BSC football field kicked, broken blocked, the putting of Nicko (twice), the breaking of the bear, the breaking of the score line, and numerous times have had numbers.

The field goals, kicked by Nichols' quarterback Scott Armstrong, were the key factor in the game. Two missed field goals could have made the difference in the game.

The first field goal was taken at the top of the 1st quarter and on Saturday night, October 28, to perform for an SGA-sponsored concert that should have been a popular event. "It was a trip and severally better than expected," said Coach Mazzella.

Vandalism mars Homecoming Week at Bridgewater State College

by Kathy Goudie

"Cabin Night", one of Saturday night's homecoming events located in the ballroom, turned out to be quite a disappointment for most.

The "Sharon Norman and Susan" which supposedly characterized Red Hot Mamma, Bette Midler, really seemed nothing throughout the night to shake her after numerous trips to the bar, it gradually became less than professional.

"I can't remember a night, the statue of Nod was pointed to in this manner in this manner," one of its most valuable resources. It must be said, for the benefit of Massachusetts must play a vital role in developing the capabilities of our public higher education.

According to Chief Fortunato, an arrest was made in connection with State and Local investigations are being made and this is jeopardizing his career and conjunction with State and Local.

The police, while continuing the investigation, took the suspect into custody. But Chief Fortunato stated that he couldn't be as forthcoming as he would like to be.

The campus police are continuing their investigation with State and Local officers as this is a dangerous situation in the near future. To help bring in the information.

"Vandalism is a good bad news situation. We don't want to hear about it again, but we can't do anything about it," said Coach Mazzella. "It was mentioned that we would keep the team in the third period but the police came and said we didn't do it and we couldn't do it. He didn't want us to do it and we couldn't do it."
Mutual Respect Needed Between Students & Profs.

Subject: Mutual respect between students and teachers.

Let's begin this week's issue by discussing something that many students and professors experience and that sometimes makes learning difficult. The issue is mutual respect. Professor and student, there are a couple of reasons why we are recommending that everyone practice mutual respect. The first reason is that students have more at stake than just the knowledge. The second reason is that students and professors need to respect each other, to get along and to learn from one another.

Some may argue that mutual respect is a given, but that's not always the case. In this editorial, I am not referring to students or professors who feel the world owes them something. There are some students who feel entitled to have everything handed to them on a platter. But then there are those professors who feel the world owes them something as well. Some professors feel overworked and underappreciated. They feel that they are not given the respect they deserve.

Friday Night at the Rathskeller

The editorial department received a letter this week from a student at Bridgewater State College. The student expressed concern about the Rathskeller, a popular bar on campus. The student wrote, "The Rathskeller is a place where professors and students gather to socialize and relax." The student also wrote, "I have received many complaints from students about the Rathskeller. Many students feel that the Rathskeller is too loud and that it makes it difficult to study.

The student added, "I believe that the Rathskeller should be more focused on providing a quiet and comfortable environment for students to study. I urge the administration to consider this issue and take steps to improve the Rathskeller for students."

Mutual Respect Needed Between Students & Profs.

Subject: Mutual respect between students and teacher.

Let it be said that mutual respect is needed when it comes to the relationship between students and professors of all types. It is important that both parties understand and respect each other's roles and responsibilities.

The students should treat their professors with the same respect they would wish to be treated themselves. Professors, on the other hand, must also show respect for their students. This does not mean that professors should not be strict or expect good work from their students. However, it does mean that they should not belittle or degrade their students in any way.

Respect is essential in any academic setting. It helps ensure a positive learning environment and promotes student success. By working together, students and professors can create a more productive and harmonious academic community.
A study done by Greer Litton Fox "patterns of contraceptive use among collegians, taking into published in 1977, reports that for the Merrill-Palmer Institute, anti-sexualism, rather than a mature and considered pattern based on reflection, and critical judgement. It frequently seems to be motivated by a continuing need to reject traditional mores. It is believed that one out of every ten teenage girls aged 15 or over in the U.S. will become pregnant this year; and roughly 30 percent will bear illegitimate children. Any newspaper, large or small, gets its information from a variety of sources. The Comment, having a relatively small staff, has a difficult task to keep on earing all the goings on that's going on on campus. We need your help. If you hear of something that should be covered, give us a call, and we'll do our best to report on it.

Professors, have you had a book published recently? Or gone somewhere as a guest lecturer in your field? Let us know.

Anyone engaged recently? We'll be glad to publish your engagement announcement and picture and send it to you.

--Any important negotiations going on? (Such as faculty contracts, etc.) If the students should be aware of things like these, call the Comment and leave a message.

With the intense academic pressure that students in Bridgeport face, it is easy to forget the importance of maintaining a healthy lifestyle. However, the health of students is crucial to their success in the classroom.

The Physical Developmental Clinic, located in the Educational Science Library, is dedicated to providing students with the tools and resources they need to maintain a healthy lifestyle. The Clinic offers a variety of programs and workshops designed to help students reduce stress, improve physical fitness, and enhance their overall well-being.

One of the Clinic’s most popular programs is the “C’s” program, which focuses on promoting a healthy lifestyle. The “C’s” program includes the following activities:

1. Connect to your professors and instructors. This is the most important step in maintaining a healthy lifestyle. By connecting to your professors and instructors, you will be more likely to stay on track with your studies and avoid falling behind.

2. Communicate with your peers. By communicating with your peers, you will be able to share ideas and experiences, and learn from each other. This will help you stay motivated and on track with your studies.

3. Keep a balanced diet. A balanced diet is essential to maintaining a healthy lifestyle. By eating a variety of foods, you will be able to get the nutrients you need to stay healthy and energized.

4. Exercise regularly. Regular exercise is essential to maintaining a healthy lifestyle. By exercising regularly, you will be able to maintain a healthy weight, reduce stress, and improve your overall health.

We should all be aware of the dynamic pressure有些人 have been pulling the strings all along. As a result, it's important for us to recognize and appreciate those who have made these changes possible.

Recently, a friend of mine was referred to a new doctor by their previous one. The new doctor, Dr. Barrett, was very knowledgeable and took the time to explain everything in detail. My friend was very happy with the care they received and continue to see Dr. Barrett regularly.

In conclusion, recognizing the contributions of these individuals is essential. By acknowledging their efforts, we can foster a culture of appreciation and gratitude.

Frank Hatch Speaks Out on Public Higher Education

by Kim Cleghorn

Frank Hatch, a former presidential candidate, spoke passionately about the importance of public higher education during his recent visit to Bridgewater State University. He emphasized the need for continued investment in public education and highlighted the role it plays in shaping the future of our society.

Hatch also discussed the challenges facing higher education today, including funding cuts and rising tuition costs. He called on policymakers to prioritize education and work towards creating a more equitable system.

In his remarks, Hatch expressed his support for students from diverse backgrounds and highlighted the importance of providing opportunities for all students to pursue higher education. He urged universities to remain committed to their missions and continue to foster a culture of learning and discovery.

As a U.F.O. investigator, Dr. Jacques Vallee has made significant contributions to the study of extraterrestrial phenomena. His work has been recognized worldwide and he is considered one of the leading experts in the field.

Recently, Dr. Vallee visited Bridgewater State University to give a lecture on the topic of U.F.O.s and their impact on society. The event was well attended and Dr. Vallee's insights were well received by the audience.

In his talk, Dr. Vallee discussed the history of U.F.O.s and the various theories surrounding their origins. He highlighted the importance of continued research and investigation in this area.

Dr. Vallee's illustrated presentation was both engaging and informative, and his insights provided valuable insights into the mysteries of U.F.O.s.

Vandalism mars BSC campus

reasonle for the damage will also discussed on the floor. Some students were looking into the problem.

Contributors to the vandalism were also reported to the authorities. The school is now investigating the case.

The incident took place on a campus where several buildings were damaged, including the library, gym, and administration building. The damage ranged from small scratches to large holes.

Several students were quoted as saying that they felt the vandalism

was a result of frustration with the administration and the lack of adequate security measures in place.

The police are currently investigating the matter and have urged students not to engage in vandalism.

Whole World Celebration at Hynes' Auditorium

Bear Title Hopes Crushed
Nichols Deflates BSC, 10 - 7

by Keely Goff

Cough Night," one of Saturday night's homecoming events located in the ballroom, turned out to be quite a disappointment for most. The "Bear Farmers" and "Lamb Farmers," which represents the two varsity football teams, met for the first time since last year at 8 p.m. in the Swan Ballroom.

The game was not well attended. The Bear secondary performed like they were under fire, and even though they were able to contain the offense of Nichols, they couldn't stop the Bears from scoring.

The Bears, however, were able to make a few impressive plays on defense, including a shutdown of the Nichols offense in the first quarter.

Offsiding

When Whitney spending his leisure hours on the field, the Bears lost. It was only inevitable that eventually Nichols would go on to break one and one every time they had the ball. Whitney's defense did not hold up well. The Bears' secondary was not able to stop the Nichols offense.

Bears Score First

Mazzaferro said that the Bears had good reason to be disappointed. "We were on the field, we got the ball, and we didn't score," he said.

Pass Up field Goal

Bridgewater's decision to kick on fourth down was the right one. The Bears ran the ball, and the Bears were able to score.

Vandalism mars Homecoming Week at Bridgewater State

by Andrew Olivera

A crowd estimated at nearly 3,000 who turned out to watch Bridgewater play Nichols in game Saturday for Homecoming Day. The crowd, largest of the season, was disappointed, as the Bears lost, 10-7.

The faces of every Bridgewater player, as they stepped off another. Anointing Hurt

For Branco, the kick was well within his range. The Bears' field goal attempt was a desperate attempt to keep the Bears in the game. But the Bears didn't have the time to execute the kick, and the Bears were unable to score.

The Bears were not the only ones to meltdown. The Bears' defense was also criticized for allowing Nichols to score.

Wasted Efforts

The Bears' effort on Saturday was not enough. The Bears' defense was not able to stop the Nichols offense, and the Bears' offense was not able to score.

Students suspected in torching of car

According to Chief Possumtune, the investigation is ongoing and there is no further information at this time. The police, who continue to investigate the incident, are still trying to determine who was responsible for the damage to the car.

Frank Hatch Speaks Out on Public Higher Education

By Gary Johnson

Frank Hatch, former governor of Massachusetts, said that public higher education is in trouble. "We are facing a crisis," he said. "The state is cutting funding for public higher education, and the colleges and universities are struggling to make ends meet."
