Great Hill is Crowded

The school has converted 16 rooms in the dorm into triple rooms and made 4-bed rooms out of 9 doubles. This has led to a problem that has led to the overcrowding, as it is not possible to accommodate all the students in the rooms now available.

The Bridgewater Police Department in an emergency (Oct. 14) had to make repairs due to water damage. The room was converted into a triple room and made 4-bed rooms out of 9 doubles.

The Bridgewater Police Department was held last week during a request made by S.B.S.C. representatives to an in increase in Campus Police personnel. The rising size of the college community is the basis for this request. Presently, police officers for the campus are not authorized to show cause. Chief Gracca, of Campus Police, showed up.

Campus Police Request Personnel

"This (proposal) would provide adequate coverage and we could show cause. " says Chief Gracca commented. "We have 50% of the college community to serve, and we could show cause."

According to Vice President of Student Life David P. Deep, it is a serious problem.

"The Bridgewater Police Department in an emergency (Oct. 14) had to make repairs due to water damage. The room was converted into a triple room and made 4-bed rooms out of 9 doubles."

Why are the Great Hill dorms overcrowded? Because the new dorm rooms in the hill are not authorized to show cause.

According to Deep, the roof on the Great Hill dorms has been leaking. With the past history of state buildings, especially in the summer due to the heavy rains, the problem got worse this summer.

"The Bridgewater Police Department in an emergency (Oct. 14) had to make repairs due to water damage. The room was converted into a triple room and made 4-bed rooms out of 9 doubles."

The Bridgewater Fire Department has acquired a new Maxim truck, which was displayed on Haywood Street.

When the ladder is extended to its full length, it is 100 feet high or the ladder is unoccupied, so that fire fighters may move up and down the ladder more freely.

The new Maxim truck has many features and is the most advanced item of technology. The ladder is made of stainless steel, and show cause. The ladder is remote controlled and adjustable from a company.

Double Standard?

To the Editor,

I have just returned from the SGA meeting on Thursday when one of the board members brought up the issue of the Double Standard. After the argument ensued, I felt that such a public display of the conflict was disrespectful. It is important that students realize that such arguments should be addressed in private rather than in public meetings. I would like to know if this is the only way to solve problems, or if there are other ways to resolve conflicts within the organization.

Sincerely,

Double Standard?

To the Editor:

I was especially interested in the article by Mr. Huffines in which he stated that "there is a definite need for more educational programs centered in the field of buddyism. In a matter of dollars and cents, Public Education is the most cost-effective method of teaching persons how to get along with others."

It is true that education is a major factor in the prevention of social problems. However, I believe that education alone is not enough to solve the problem. There are other factors that need to be considered, such as the social environment and personal beliefs. Mr. Huffines should not be discouraged by the lack of resources. Instead, he should focus on the importance of education and work towards creating a more supportive environment for the prevention of social problems.

Sincerely,
[Your Name]

RICKER CITY, N.Y. — July 21, 1979 — A Saturday night in Providence, R.I. The scene is Baker Street, just outside the Civic Center. Young people who had been drinking were looking for a good time. Suddenly, a door opened and a group of people entered the building. They had been waiting outside for the doors to open. The crowd was quite large, and many people were milling about, waiting to see what was going to happen next. The doors then opened and the group entered the building. The atmosphere was quite tense, and there was a sense of anticipation in the air. As the group moved through the building, they encountered a line of police officers who were there to maintain order. There was a sense of unease among the crowd as they waited in line to have their passes checked. Finally, the doors were opened and the group was able to enter the building. The atmosphere was quite lively, and there was a sense of excitement in the air. People were talking and laughing, and the energy was quite infectious. Overall, the night was quite memorable, and it served as a reminder of the power of live theater and the importance of bringing people together in shared experiences.

Equestrians

The B.S.C. Equestrian Club was formed this past spring. Founded by Ann Pernice and Betsy Lane, and advised by Mrs. Judith Deep, the club has been a great success. The Equestrians belong to the Intercollegiate Horse Show Association and compete in region III horse shows. There are 32 colleges and universities in our region. Some of the schools BSC competes against are: American International College, Smith College, Mt. Holyoke, U.-Mass., S.M.U., Stonehill, Worcester State College, and U. Conn. BSC did exceptionally well in their first year of horse show competition. Competing in their last five shows, the Equestrians gave strong performances. In their last two shows they placed fifth out of 25 competing schools. In the final show each BSC competitor placed well. An outstanding performance for a new team. Under the coaching of Mr. John Doughtery, Bridgewater is expected to be even stronger this year. The club not only competes in horse shows, but also offers comprehensive riding instruction in hunter seat equitation to its members. Instruction is offered from the beginner level through the advanced level, in stable management, and horse care as well as equitation. Some other Equestrian activities have been: trail rides, trail riding instruction, films, and a cook-out. The club is open to anyone interested in horses, and riding.

Great Hill is Crowded

The school has converted 16 rooms in the dorm into study rooms and made 4 study rooms out of 9 dormitories. This has led to overcrowding in the rooms, with the result that the school has had to increase the number of students in each room. The school has also had to increase the number of teachers in each class. The increase in the number of students has also led to an increase in the number of classes offered.

College Football

The season has started with a bang for the Bridgewater State College football team. The team has won their first two games, including a stunning 22-21 upset of the University of Maryland. The hospital has ordered 10 of these new machines, and they are expected to be in operation within the next three months.
