Dear Editor:

I'd like to express my appreciation at the initiation use made of the Clement C. Maxwell Library for the examination period. Never have so many students availed themselves of the library facilities, and it is obviously that it has been done with a sense of cooperation and service.

Owen T. McGowan
Director of Library Services

The experience has made our time in the course of the examination period, and we appreciate the students who took a similar difficult task.

Students Congratulated

Dear Editor:

I was surprised at the number of articles which discuss the matter of the fire alarms and the potential danger they pose to the community. I fully support the idea of providing a safe environment for those who use the school facilities, and I do not believe that anyone should be allowed to use the alarm system for their own personal convenience. It is unfair to expect the community to suffer from such actions, and I do not think that the school should allow anyone to do so.

Dr. Michael McEachern
Managing Editor

The fire alarms are a living memorial to many students who have lost their lives, and it is important that we protect them.
I'd like to drop this, add this. And add this and drop this.

One minute sir, here you are.

At last a scumbag.

I can live with.

ALL THAT JAZZ
by Bill Strayhorn

The month of November marked the 50th anniversary of the 1929 stock market crash. The crash was the most devastating in modern American history. The world was never the same after that day. On that day, the Wall Street Journal reported that the Dow Jones Industrial Average fell 12.82 points, or 22.6 percent, to 38.19. The crash was caused by a combination of factors, including a speculative bubble in the stock market, a tightening of credit, and a lack of regulation. The crash led to a deep recession and a prolonged period of economic depression. The crash has been the subject of many books and movies, including "Chasing the Dream," a recent book by the Wall Street Journal's managing editor, Peter Navarro.

Whether in Moscow or anywhere else in the world, we will prove more to previous years, like Munich. For the United States to take part in the 1980 Summer Games, the politics have no place in the Olympic Games. Mr. Carter's statement is for the United States to boycott the games should be moved out of Moscow and possibly to the sight of another country.

Ilene Hantiz, Class of 1983.

I do not favor a boycott of the Summer Games. I agree with Senator George McGovern who says that the Olympics should not be used as a political tool. The previous years, like Munich, have shown that the Olympics can be used to a country's advantage. If the Olympics are boycotted, the United States will lose support from other countries and our allies. This past week the American people and our allies have a reason to compete in a country that is not politically neutral, and to avoid differences between the countries involved in today's current issues.

Brennan, Class of 1981.

I don't think that the Olympics should be used as a political tool. The Olympics are a symbol of peace and friendship, and should be used to bring people together, not to divide them. I do not favor a boycott, because I don't believe that political conflicts should be brought into something that has been a symbol of peace, cooperation and goodwill between countries for many years. I am against the idea of the Olympics being used as a tool to further political ends.

Susan Rogers, Class of 1981.

Commentary

by Jim Coney

This week President Carter is scheduled to ask for a boycott of the 1980 Summer Olympic Games, which are to be held in Moscow. The President is calling for the boycott to protest the Soviet invasion of Afghanistan. However, part of the President's case will be that no U.S. government official should be able to participate in the Olympics because of the political situation in the Soviet Union.

In 1977 the U.S. Olympic Committee was formed in order to participate in the 1980 Summer Olympic Games in Moscow. The committee's proposal is to hold a boycott of the Moscow Olympics. Because of this, we should consider the boycott as being part of the political situation in the Soviet Union.

The proposal should be for a boycott of the U.S. Olympic team from Moscow. This proposal is based on the fact that the United States is not the only country that is boycotting the Moscow Olympics. Other countries that are boycotting the games include France, Italy, Japan, and Spain.

The boycott should be for all athletes who are to participate in the Moscow Olympics. The boycott should also be for all athletes who are to participate in any future Olympic Games until such time as the political situation in the Soviet Union is resolved.
