Advertiser’s View of Women Discussed

Jean Kilbourne lectured at BSC.

Jean Kilbourne, a graduate of Wellesley College, is currently on the college lecture circuit with this presentation titled "Women, Advertising, and the Media: A History of Women's Images in Advertising." Kilbourne discussed the use of images of women in advertising and their effects on society. She highlighted how women are often portrayed as sexually attractive and thin, which is not representative of the majority of women in the United States. Kilbourne also talked about how advertisers play on people's insecurities and desires to make women feel ugly, inadequate, and incompetent.

Kilbourne pointed out that advertisements are created to make the average woman feel ill-equipped, inferior, and powerless. She discussed how the media and advertising are responsible for maintaining a culture of insecurity, which can lead to a lack of self-esteem and self-worth. Kilbourne emphasized that advertisers are playing on people's insecurities to make a profit, and that this has led to a culture of people feeling like they are not enough.

Kilbourne ended her presentation by encouraging the audience to be aware of the messages being sent by the media and to take control of their own self-esteem and confidence. She urged people to be more critical of the messages they see and to make informed decisions about how they choose to interact with the media.

Letters to the Editor

Response to Editorial

Dear Editor,

The letter is in regards to the recent editorial page on April 10th, and how I feel about it. I understand that editorial exists for the purpose of delivery opinion. But what is the purpose of allowing students to have an editorial every week? Are students supposed to have a say in the topics? I would think the students should have a vote in what issues are going to be discussed in the paper.

Sincerely,

On-Campus Costs

Dear Editor,

I am writing in regards to the current increase in costs on campus. In the past two months, the cost of living has increased dramatically. I believe that the administration should be more transparent about how they allocate funds. I have heard rumors of mismanagement and waste of resources. I would like to see a more efficient use of funds to benefit the students.

Sincerely,

Response to Editorial
Dear Editor:
The letter is in regard to the publishing of an editorial page to begin on this issue, as I am the editor of this section. I believe this is a move in the right direction. As a result, I am writing to express my opinion on this matter.

The editorial page is intended to provide readers with a platform to express their views and opinions on various topics. It is an opportunity for the public to engage in discourse and contribute to the broader conversation.

I support the inclusion of the editorial section as it can promote critical thinking and encourage readers to form their own opinions. It allows for a diverse range of perspectives to be represented, fostering a richer dialogue.

Moreover, the editorial page can serve as a forum for important discussions on timely and relevant issues. It can address concerns and raise awareness about social, political, and cultural matters affecting the community.

In conclusion, the editorial page is a valuable addition to the publication. It provides readers with a space to express their thoughts, and it contributes to the overall quality and depth of the content.

Sincerely,

" الأمريكتين " is the only thing that I can say that America should give up hope of ever being a true democracy. It's a race to the bottom and no one wins. America is once again running around the world with a shoe in its face and no one is even trying to stop it.

The situation is the birth to both countries-both moved to the U.S. in the 1940's and went out and they said, "we're going to take over the world and we're going to do it our way."

The U.S. is not going to give up easily. We have made our position known and we are not going to back down. We will do whatever it takes to make sure that our country is protected.

In conclusion, I believe that America should continue to work hard and stay strong. We have a great country and we should be proud of it."
