The money in question is the money Local 836 of AFSCME, the union that covers secretarial and clerical; recently. The union steward Carol Wright stated that, by concentrating on the hotline to aid victims of abuse, she would be defending the rights of women students. When I finished high school, I enrolled in a political science program at UMass....
Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

I am writing in response to a couple of complaints directed at my personal opinions, which I feel are being unnecessarily criticized by certain students. I am not trying to impose my views on others, but I do believe that it is important to present a variety of perspectives on any given topic.

Number one, I do not believe that stereotypes are harmful. Stereotypes can be a useful tool for understanding and predicting behavior, especially in situations where there is limited information about an individual. Additionally, stereotypes can be used to challenge and question our assumptions about others.

Number two, I honestly find it very sad that people are so quick to judge others based on their appearance or characteristics.

Number three, I am trying to live a normal life. I don't see anything wrong with enjoying oneself and being happy. Additionally, I do not believe that people should be shamed for their preferences or beliefs.

Number four, I do not think it is necessary to be an expert in a particular field in order to make valid points. I believe that everyone has the right to offer their own opinions and perspectives on any given topic.

Number five, I do not think it is appropriate to attack others for their opinions or beliefs. I believe that everyone should be able to express themselves freely and without fear of retribution.

I appreciate your consideration of my points of view and hope that we can continue to have open and respectful discussions on all topics.

Sincerely,

[Signature]

Page 2 of the Student, May 15, 1981

Commentary

Bureaucracy at Bridgewater

Sometimes Students Slip Through the Cracks

by Richard Lasner

I was never one of those who was interested in a second husband's degree in economics, or one who was interested in the intricacies of politics. For me, college was a time for exploration and growth. I wanted to learn as much as I could about the world around me, and I believed that education was the key to achieving that goal.

But as I look back on my time at Bridgewater, I realize that there was a significant flaw in the system. There was a vast bureaucratic structure that seemed to be hindering the progress of students, rather than helping them.

There is an illusion held by many that public colleges, because they are responsible to the government, are somehow more efficient and effective than private institutions. However, in reality, public colleges are often hindered by the red tape and bureaucratic processes that are in place.

The problem with this system is that it can stifle innovation and creativity. Students are often forced to navigate through a complex web of policies and regulations, which can be overwhelming and discouraging.

As a result, many students may not be able to take full advantage of the opportunities that are available to them. They may be prevented from pursuing their interests or exploring new ideas, simply because of the bureaucratic barriers that are in place.

This is a significant issue, and one that must be addressed. Institutions of higher education must find ways to streamline their processes and make them more efficient. They must also ensure that their policies and regulations are fair and reasonable, and that they are not hindering the progress of students.

Only through these efforts can we hope to create a system that truly serves the needs of students and prepares them for success in the world.

Exit Interviews

During the month of May, there will be a series of special meetings for all seniors, January and August graduates, who will have to give at least one hour during their time at Bridgewater College. The purpose of these meetings is to assess the experiences of students and to determine how the college can improve their overall experience.

The meetings will be conducted by two trained professionals, who will be assisting the students in identifying areas for improvement. The information gathered will be used to make recommendations to the administration on how to improve the college experience for all students.

Nine Year Plan continued

I have been involved with several projects at the college community by means of the print media, through this newspaper, and through my involvement with B.C.C. as well. It is important that we continue to support the college community, and that we do so in a manner that respects the views of all students.

The most important aspect of my work is that, with the support of the administration and the faculty, I am able to do what I love most: help students learn and grow. I believe that it is essential that we continue to support the college community, and that we do so in a manner that respects the views of all students.

I appreciate your consideration of my points of view and hope that we can continue to have open and respectful discussions on all topics.

Sincerely,

[Signature]

Page 3 of the Student, May 15, 1981

Quad 8 Awards

After weeks of deciding who would win the awards, the ceremonies were finally held last night in the Student Center. The winners were announced with much fanfare, and the atmosphere was electric. The audience was filled with pride and excitement, as they listened to the names of the honorees being called out.

This year's Quad 8 Awards ceremony was successful in recognizing the hard work and dedication of the students who have contributed so much to the college community. The ceremony was a celebration of the achievements of these students, and a reminder of the importance of their contributions to the college.

The ceremony was a wonderful opportunity to celebrate the students who have made a difference, and to honor their hard work and dedication. It was a proud moment for all students, as they watched their peers be recognized for their accomplishments.

I look forward to continuing to support the college community, and to working with the students to ensure that they have the best possible college experience. Thank you for your support, and I hope you will continue to be involved in the college community.

Sincerely,

[Signature]
Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

I wrote in response to a couple of cartoons directed at my person recently. (See 0.1 and 0.2.1 and this is the standard editor reaction from me.)

Number one, I do not have a stereotype of homosexuals, I have friends, acquaintances, and relatives who are in the homosexual community and I respect them for the same reason I respect anyone. You see, like I said before, I am like the galahad of the American society, I believe in natural order, I am a man of my word, etc. etc.

Before I close I want to say a couple of things to our friends in 0.1 and 0.2.1 and this is the standard editor reaction from me. (See 0.1 and 0.2.1 and this is the standard editor reaction from me.)

I am not as fearful as all you people think I am, I say to them that if they want to come here and try to make this a place that isn’t a school, it’s going to be me they have to deal with. I am not a pacifist, I believe that if you’re going to come up to me with a gun in your hand, I am going to put up resistance.

To the Editor:

In a recent column of the Campus Bridge, staff writer David Hansel mentions that some students think that the worst thing about college is that they have to work. This is an interesting observation because it brings to the surface a fundamental issue that affects all students.

Many students, including myself, have had to work in order to finance their education. This has been a reality for many years, and it is likely to continue in the future. However, I believe that working in college has many benefits that cannot be overlooked.

First of all, working provides students with a sense of responsibility and independence. It teaches them to manage their time and money effectively, which is a valuable skill that will serve them well in the future.

Secondly, working in college can be a valuable learning experience. It provides students with an opportunity to apply what they have learned in the classroom to real-world situations. This can be especially helpful in fields such as business, finance, and accounting, where practical experience is highly valued.

Finally, working in college can provide students with a sense of accomplishment and pride. They can see the fruits of their labor and feel a sense of satisfaction in knowing that they have contributed to their education.

In conclusion, I believe that working in college is a positive experience that should be encouraged. It provides students with valuable skills and opportunities for growth and development, and it can help them achieve their academic and career goals.

Sincerely,

David Hansel

Commentary

Bureaucracy at Bridgewater

Sometimes Students Slip Through the Cracks

by Richard Lassiter

Richard Lassiter is a junior who is interested in a second bachelor's degree in French. Here is his story of coming to Bridgewater College for a second BA. He was accepted into the program, and the department was helpful and supportive. However, there were some problems along the way. He encountered bureaucracy, delays in the transfer credit evaluation, and difficulties with the requirements for the program. In the end, Richard was able to complete his second BA in French, but not without a lot of red tape and frustration. This is a story of both the strengths and weaknesses of the college bureaucracy.

First of all, Richard was accepted into the program with the understanding that he would need to transfer in certain courses from his previous institution. However, the transfer credit evaluation process was slow and inefficient. It took Richard several months to receive credit for the courses he had taken at his previous institution.

Secondly, Richard encountered some difficulties with the requirements for the program. He had to fulfill certain language requirements, and the department was very strict about these. Richard had to complete several language courses, and he found the requirements to be quite challenging.

Finally, Richard had to deal with some bureaucracy at the institution. He encountered delays in receiving the necessary paperwork, and he had to deal with a lot of red tape. Despite these challenges, Richard was able to complete his second BA in French, but he has some concerns about the bureaucracy at Bridgewater College.

In conclusion, while Richard was able to complete his second BA in French, he encountered some challenges along the way. He had to deal with bureaucracy, delays in the transfer credit evaluation, and difficulties with the requirements for the program. However, he was able to overcome these challenges and complete his degree. While Richard is happy with the outcome, he also has some concerns about the bureaucracy at Bridgewater College.
Dear Gabby,

Is this dangerous? What is your opinion?

Of course, I don't know the facts of this case. You have heard a lot of rumors or maybe you have heard this lawyer's statement. So I suggest you think about the case on your own and try your best to find a lawyer to defend you.

Good luck. Good bye and don't forget to keep on rolling.

Best wishes,

Answer: I don't know. I can't answer this question.

Sincerely,

Dear Confused Freshman,

You wrote about your confusion regarding how to start a relationship. It's a common feeling and it's important to take it seriously.

When you're feeling confused about something, it's a good idea to talk to someone you trust about it. That could be a friend, a family member, or even a professional counselor.

It's also important to remember that relationships are not just about finding the perfect person. They are about finding someone who you feel comfortable with, someone who you can be yourself with, and someone who can support you through the good times and the bad.

So, don't worry too much about whether you're ready or not. Just take things one step at a time and see where it goes.

Best wishes,

Dear Confused Freshman,

I think it's important to have a clear understanding of what you want from a relationship. Are you looking for something serious or casual? Do you want to spend time with the same person every day, or are you okay with the idea of taking things slow and seeing where it goes?

It's also important to consider what you can offer to the relationship. Are you willing to put in the time and effort to make it work? Are you willing to communicate openly and honestly with your partner?

If you can answer these questions honestly, you'll be better prepared to make an informed decision about whether or not to pursue a relationship.

Best wishes,

Dear Confused Freshman,

I think it's important to be honest with yourself about what you want from a relationship. Do you want something serious or casual? Are you willing to put in the time and effort to make it work? Are you willing to communicate openly and honestly with your partner?

If you can answer these questions honestly, you'll be better prepared to make an informed decision about whether or not to pursue a relationship.

Best wishes,

Dear Confused Freshman,

I think it's important to be honest with yourself about what you want from a relationship. Do you want something serious or casual? Are you willing to put in the time and effort to make it work? Are you willing to communicate openly and honestly with your partner?

If you can answer these questions honestly, you'll be better prepared to make an informed decision about whether or not to pursue a relationship.

Best wishes,
and Daniel Arnelas as there is simply a will turn downward. Presently, the rate (now 19-1/2%) and the market is headed. A report detailing how brokers have been sifting through tons of economic statistics will go up.

Meanwhile, ex-Trick bassist Tom Peterson has formed a new group dedicated to John Lennon, entitled 27%.

Ex-Runaway Joan Jett made a visit recently to the locker room of the New York City Bus Office. She was there to promote her new album, 2112, which went Platinum two weeks ago. The album is a concept piece about the effects of electromagnetic frequency waves and their role in the growth of cancer. It's the company's most challenging project and is being communicated solely with sign language.

This reporter discovered that many families of deaf people, in the industry and the arts, are just a few examples of what the deaf are capable of doing. The ability to communicate through the company's most challenging project is part of the company's most challenging project.

The new Arbitron radio station WBCN, whose abilities are just being recognized. Carolyn Richards has been recognized. Carolyn had the hard job of telling those who's who of the world that she was deaf. However, they worked with her to understand her and appreciate her. More advances in the arts are being made in the arts.

There were many bright spots in 1980, according to the company's most challenging project management. The biggest news was the $25 million price tag attached to the 1980's most challenging project, and the $25 million price tag attached to the 1980's most challenging project. The 1980's most challenging project is the most challenging project.

This super-talented young man will go and do it again sometime. He's been playing it for over forty years now. It's the company's most challenging project, and it's being played in all the right places. It's the company's most challenging project, and it's being played in all the right places.

Good Lutk, Bye.
Opera Buffa

Take the Pretty People to See the Hills

The Tribune Museum in Milton is one of the friendliest natural history museums in Massachusetts. On display at this museum are native wild animals and plants, including exotic birds, reptiles, and snakes, owls, raccoons, and foxes. The museum is open every day except Monday, 9 to 5. Admission is $4.50 for adults, 2.25 for children, but well worth it. Plenty of parking is available in the grounds. A nominal charge at the door. The museum is open every day except Monday, 9 to 5.

See the Pretty People

Go Back to 1627

Plymouth Plantation is a fascinating place to visit. The staff portray the actual residents of 1627 Plymouth. You feel as if you are living back in time. You can take the kids to see the animals.

Venice Afternoon

In the Gardner Museum, behind the Museum of Fine Arts, on the Arborway some quiet gardens. Do not miss this opportunity to explore this unique museum. The Museum's Courtyard is the site of the annual outdoor art fair on the Fourth of July. At this time of year there will be a whole series of special events. A limited number of guided tours will be given by the museum. This museum is the Courtyard of the art lover's dream. A stroll through the Garden is the perfect way to celebrate the Fourth of July. The museum is open from 9:30 to 5:30. This day is an indoor event.

Celebrate at BSC

On May 17, 1981, the Student Union Program Committee will launch the Spring Outdoor Concert series with the "Thirteen". These will be held in a limited number of locations and are all free to the public. The first concert will be from 4:00 to 7:00 and prizes will be given for the best sound system. The concerts will continue on Saturdays in July. The series will culminate in a concert on July 15 at 8:00. The concerts will be held at the Student Union Building. There will be a nominal charge at the door. The concerts are open to the public. The first concert will be held at the Student Union Building. There will be a nominal charge at the door. The concerts are open to the public. The first concert will be held at the Student Union Building. There will be a nominal charge at the door. The concerts are open to the public.

East Bridgewater Commercial 1 Nielsen Ave.- Off Route 18 (378-2032)
TICKETS AVAILABLE NOW!!

Saturday May 16th
JOHN LINCOLN WRIGHT & The Sormouse Revue
His Latest Album, "You Can't Get There From Here" will be available...

Spring Things to Do

Spend your Summer... See you in the Fall
The Boston Museum - Fuller Memorial Park is a nature center where people observe and study animals. The museum is open May 15th through June 21st. An evening walk with a naturalist is offered. The museum is located on the grounds of the Aviary, which is open daily May 16th through Sunday, 1 to 3 p.m.

East Bridgewater Commercial 1 Nielson Ave. - Off Route 18 (378-2032) TICKETS AVAILABLE NOW!!

Saturday May 16th

JOHN LINCOLN WRIGHT & THE SOUMRASHE
His Latest Album, “You Can’t Get There From Here” will be available...

Wear your cowboy hats!!

Last Indoor Event of the Spring 4th Of July Outdoor Concert! With your favorite bands...Don’t Miss it

Have a good summer... See you in the fall

---

The Running Bears

The team sent seven members to the state meet which saw the team set off on a 1500 relay team. They placed third in the finals to make the state meet which saw the team advance to the Division III New England meet. The team was represented by seven members from the unbeaten team.

---

Elegant Violence

This past Saturday was a great day for the Running Bears. The team set off on a 1500 relay team. They placed third in the finals to make the state meet which saw the team advance to the Division III New England meet. The team was represented by seven members from the unbeaten team.

---

Gwy Logwy

Gray Lynesse

The team sent seven members to the state meet which saw the team set off on a 1500 relay team. They placed third in the finals to make the state meet which saw the team advance to the Division III New England meet. The team was represented by seven members from the unbeaten team.

---

Frisbee Golf

This past Sunday, Gwy Logwy defeated the Blue Bears in a thrilling game of Frisbee Golf. The game was held on a beautiful sunny day at the local park. The Blue Bears were unable to keep up with Gwy Logwy's impressive performance.

---

Mr. J. W. Stage

Mr. J. W. Stage is a retired teacher who enjoys spending his days at the local park playing Frisbee Golf. He is known for his impressive throws and his love for the game. The park is a favorite spot for Mr. Stage and he often plays with his own dog, Max, who also loves playing Frisbee Golf.

---

The Running Bears

The team sent seven members to the state meet which saw the team set off on a 1500 relay team. They placed third in the finals to make the state meet which saw the team advance to the Division III New England meet. The team was represented by seven members from the unbeaten team.

---

Gwy Logwy

Gray Lynesse

The team sent seven members to the state meet which saw the team set off on a 1500 relay team. They placed third in the finals to make the state meet which saw the team advance to the Division III New England meet. The team was represented by seven members from the unbeaten team.
The Comment

A Play of Our Own p. 5

On the Roads Again p. 8

Bridgewater State College

WOMEN'S PERSONALITIES

by Jill Bliss

Most people graduate from high school and if they were to enter college after graduation, it would likely be during their senior year. However, there are several students who choose to attend college after high school, and these students are referred to as "Freshmen." Freshmen are those who enter college directly after high school, and they often face unique challenges while adjusting to college life. This article explores the experiences of Freshmen and highlights some of the common challenges they encounter.

The first challenge is the transition from high school to college. High school students are accustomed to a structured schedule and specific classes, whereas college students have more freedom to choose their courses and determine their own schedules. This can be overwhelming for some students, especially those who are used to following a schedule closely.

Another challenge is the increased workload. College courses are typically more demanding than high school courses, and students are expected to complete assignments and projects on their own. This can be challenging, especially for students who are not used to being responsible for their own learning.

In addition, college students must learn to manage their time effectively. Unlike high school, college students are responsible for planning their own time, which can be difficult, especially for those who are used to having their schedules planned for them.

Overall, Freshmen must navigate several challenges as they adjust to college life. By understanding these challenges, students can better prepare themselves for success in college.

Legal protection applying to particular religious organizations can be a complex and often controversial issue, especially when it comes to matters relating to sexual orientation or gender identity. In recent years, there has been much debate about whether religious organizations should be allowed to exclude individuals based on sexual orientation or gender identity. This article discusses the legal protections available to individuals who face discrimination based on sexual orientation or gender identity and the challenges that come with advocating for these protections.

In the 1980s, the American Civil Liberties Union (ACLU) led a series of legal battles to secure equal rights for the LGBTQ+ community. These battles included landmark cases such as _Brown v. Board of Education_ (1954) and _Obergefell v. Hodges_ (2015), which established the right to same-sex marriage. However, despite these victories, there are still many challenges facing LGBTQ+ individuals today.

One of the most significant challenges is the lack of legal protections in many states. While the federal government has protections against discrimination based on sexual orientation and gender identity, these protections do not extend to all states. This means that LGBTQ+ individuals in many states do not have the same legal protections as those in states with more progressive laws.

Another challenge is the lack of knowledge and understanding among the general public about LGBTQ+ issues. This can lead to discrimination and harassment, which can have a significant impact on the mental health and well-being of LGBTQ+ individuals.

In conclusion, protecting the rights of LGBTQ+ individuals is a complex and ongoing issue. While there have been significant advances in recent years, there is still much work to be done to ensure that LGBTQ+ individuals have equal rights and protections under the law.