Dramatic Cuts!

By the Financial Aid Office

There is a growing concern among students, parents, and faculty about the potential impact on Bridgewater State College’s financial aid budget. The proposed cuts to the student assistance programs, which are supported by the Student Trustee Donaghue, have sparked a heated debate on campus.

The cuts, which include a reduction in the overall budget for financial aid, are expected to affect thousands of students. According to the Financial Aid Office, the proposed cuts would result in a significant reduction in the number of students who can receive financial aid.

The Office of Student Life and Development has been working closely with the Financial Aid Office to ensure that students are aware of the potential impact of the proposed cuts. They have also been working to identify alternative sources of funding that could help offset the cuts.

In addition, the Office of Student Life and Development is exploring other options, such as increasing the use of grants and scholarships, to help support students who are facing financial difficulties.

The situation remains complex and it is important that students and their families stay informed about the potential impact of the proposed cuts. The Office of Student Life and Development will continue to work closely with the Financial Aid Office to ensure that students have access to the financial aid they need.

PRICE OF LIFE

New York, I'm told, is a place where you can give everything a chance. Considering the excess of garbage, confusion of pedestrians, and high price levels, it seems to fit the bill. Actually, I've only seen part of the city, but it's often the case that what we see is what we remember.

There is a great variety of people here, too. The majority of them are young, and many of them appear to be quite active. It's easy to get the impression that New York is a city of youth. But there are also many older people, and a number of them are extremely active. The city is full of energy, and it's easy to see why so many people come here.

Despite the high cost of living, New York is a place where you can find something to do. There are always plenty of things happening, and there's always something new to see. It's a place where you can feel alive, and it's a place where you can find yourself.

MATTERS OF CONSEQUENCE

As the Little Prince continued his journey on the way to his new home, he came upon an orchard. Lemon was orange, sugarcane was brown and gold, and figs were quite small. He was very surprised. The orchard was complete, he thought, and the fruits he saw there could be found only in the orchard.

On top of this, if perhaps more obvious, was the rose. The Little Prince's rose was different from any other rose he had seen before. She was beautiful, and she was the reason he was there.

The Little Prince continued his journey, and he made new friends. He was always ready to learn, and he was always ready to help. He was very kind, and he was very helpful. He was always ready to be there for others.

But the Little Prince, though he was always ready to help, was never around to help or aid others. He was always ready to be there, but he was never around to help or aid others.

Night Hikes for Wood Hall Women

By

Almost two weeks ago at the January 22 SGA meeting Mary Delaney and Dean David Norton presented the motion for the creation of nighttime hikes for Wood Hall women. Many women living at Wood Hall told the executive committee that they were interested in an additional safety feature. The hike was originally proposed because of the increase in violence and assault cases. Some women living at Wood Hall also said that they would feel more secure if they had the option of taking a hike. The motion was approved unanimously by the executive committee.

However, the hike has also joined other recent measures being taken by the women's organization to increase safety. The hike is being offered as a way to increase the awareness of the situation and to provide a safe environment for the women living at Wood Hall. The hike is scheduled for every Thursday night throughout the month of February. It will begin at 9 p.m. from the parking lot and will take approximately one hour and a half. Anyone interested in participating is encouraged to contact the executive committee.

REVIEW/RECORD:

Angry City — "Two-Minute Warning"

Angry City's new album is a boldly rock statement. It has a powerful bass and drums and a catchy guitar riff that comes across as a classic rock tune.

Metaphor — "Ride the Lightning"

Ride the Lightning is a very good rock album. The band has a strong rhythm section that keeps the energy up. The guitar work is impressive, with a good lead sound and a solid rhythm section.

Wings of Love — "Don't Let Me Be Lonely"

Wings of Love's new album is a sad song about lost love. The lyrics are very touching and the music is very emotional.

CAPSULE REVIEW/MOVIES:

Johnny Dangerously (PG) — Bette Midler was magnificent, but this movie is a sad movie. The acting is good, but the storyline is weak.

Kiss Me, Stupid (PG) — This is a very good movie. The acting is good, and the storyline is very good.

This week was an excellent one for B.S.C. athletics as all sports went undefeated for the first time in a long while.

The WOMEN'S BASKETBALL team (15-1) continued their winning ways tomorrow against Northeastern Mass. (84-62) on Sunday. Scoring with a great finish, the B.S.C. team hopes to put the Northeastern Mass. team to bed. If they do, the B.S.C. team will go on to the next round of the playoffs.

On the other hand, the B.S.C. men's basketball team (15-1) continued their winning ways. Their biggest win was the double-dip over Nichols College. The men's basketball team (15-1) continued their winning ways, with the men topping Providence College (82-64) on Sunday.

Bruins Update
The Bruins, having completed seven game series against Adams Division rivals in which they compiled a record of 4-3-0, have moved into a tie for third place with the Quebec Nordiques. Both teams have 55 points, although the Nordiques have played less games.

Ray Barque, the Bruins leading scorer and the only member of the team to be elected to the all-star game, was sidelined with a bruised shoulder. He is expected to return to action either Saturday against Winnipeg or Thursday when the Bruins play Hartford.

Terri O'Reilly, who dumped Quebec's Wilf Paiement on his butt in retaliation for an incident in which Paiement was said to have broken Charlie Simmer's jaw, got his 200th career goal in the same game. Not bad for a guy with the skating ability of a jellyfish. Of course, for what he lacks in speed he makes up many times over in hard work.

Mike Milbury has gotten two goals in the last two games. Add these to all the other goals he's scored this year and you come up with a total of ... three. Way to go big Mike! By the way nice slapshot you got there.

The Bruins are now heading into a stretch of four home games.

Nobody Beats Our Value to New York.

$45

We’ve just lowered our fares to New York nearly 50%. Just $19 coach, Friday to Sunday, Monday to Thursday it’s only $25. That’s the best travel value going, peak or off-peak. And when you bring the kids along, you’ll save even more—children under 12 go for half price.

It’s all part of the reason for taking Amtrak. You see, the train actually makes travel a pleasant experience. Our spacious, reclining seats are like no others. And where else can you find aisles wide enough for a leisurely stroll?

Not to mention our café, where you can get a sandwich, snack or beverage, whenever you like.

Oh, there’s one more thing. On Amtrak, you can go from downtown Boston or the Rhode Island train stations, Providence, Narragansett, or some suburban stations. So the next time you’re headed to the Big Apple, call your travel agent or call Amtrak at 1-800-USA-RAIL.

Iggy Gets Written Up

DEAR P.J.

When I first moved into the dorm, I thought it would be great to live alone and have the chance to meet new friends. At first I was enjoying it and I got along just great, but lately things have been awful. I went away for a weekend and when I got back I found that my stuff was missing. I didn’t think much of it until one of my roommates told me that one of my mailboxes was missing. It’s a little thing, but I can’t help feeling used. I hope you can help.

Sincerely,
Roommate Trouble

Living

Dear Roommate,

Living with two people you don’t know very well can be very trying. The only way to work this out is to keep the lines of communication open. You’ll have to talk about your feelings and what your expectations are. You found out what’s wrong or what I didn’t tell you about your relationship with the other roommate? In this situation, it’s helpful to have some kind of organization. I’ve tried not to get involved with my other roommate and friends, but even then I can’t tell what’s going on. I’m beginning to get scared. I would like any suggestions on how to deal with this situation before it gets out of control.

Sincerely,
Roommate

GREEK LETTERS

Kappa Phi Omego

In the fall of 1962, the three internal organizations, Sigma Chi, Alpha Omicron Pi and Pi Beta Delta, a cred society, were all growing rapidly. In the Spring of 1963 five women from the Hill took a definite step for Kappa at B.S.C.; an organization that would reflect the women's college—a new choice in the Greek System, something they could call their own. We noticed a group of young women who were willing to put in the time involved in the running of a society, explained Jo Anne McLeod, past President and one of the founding sisters who, with Jennifer Humphreys, Christine Larose, and Linda Beaulieu founded the Kappa Phi Omego society. In May of 1963, twenty-seven women had become affiliated with the only recognized society on campus. The foundation of Kappa Phi Omego focused upon three principles: friendship, scholarship, and service to the college and the community. The forty-two sisters have many long lasting friendships among themselves, members of the community, and other internal organizations. Strong dedication to maintaining and building friendship is evident in their uphold- ing of the second principle, scholarship. All sisters are involved in at least one good academic standing. Athletic ability is not a requirement, therefore all sisters are offered academic assistance from any member of the community if needed. Finally, the sisters' commitment to the college and community service has been recog- nized by their work with blood drives, March of Dimes Walk-a-thon, assistance during homecoming, Parents Weekend, and the Chinese delegation visit last semester. Stanley, two Christmas Toy Drives and a Covenant Food drive were sponsored by Kappa Phi Omego. Plans for a clothe drive to benefit the shelter for battered women further exemplify their commitment to community service.

The uniqueness of the society is that it is not a club which can be joined and then dropped; the membership ends. Founding members are selected for life, they all experience a special feeling of pride and deep affection for each other and themselves which can't quite be described. The term "sister" really applies to the women of Kappa Phi Omego and all agree that the society will have a great impact on their college years and many years when seeing B.S.C.

GREEK LETTERS

Kappa Phi Omega

In the fall of 1982, the three sorority organizations, Sigma Chi, Alpha Upsilon and Phi Delta, a cord formation, were all growing rapidly. In the Spring of 1983, five women from the Hill top a definite need for a sorority in B.S.C., an organization that would offer the women of the college a new choice in the Greek System, something they could call their own.

"We needed a group of young women who were willing to put in the time involved in the running of a sorority," explained Jo Ann McValley, past President and one of the founding sisters who, with Janette Humphreys, Rhonda Denny, and Lisa Brubaker founded the Kappa Phi Omega Sorority. By May of 1983, twenty-seven women had become members with the only recognized security on campus.

The foundation of Kappa Phi Omega focused upon three principles:

• Friendship
• Scholarship
• Service

and services to the college and the community. The forty-two sisters many long lasting friendships among themselves, members of the community, and other.institutional organizations. Strong dedication to maintaining and building friendship is evident in their uphold ing of the second principle, scholarship. All sisters are encouraged to take good academic standing. Scholarship is necessary to maintain membership, therefore there are academic standards to give any sister the opportunity to improve. Finally, the sorority's commitment to service and community service has been reconfirmed by their work in Blood drives, March of Dimes, Wacky wares, assistance during fund raising, and community service. Parents Weekend and the Community Service Committee are the fruits of the forty-two sisters work in the sorority. By June 1983, twenty-seven women had become members with the only recognized security on campus.

The uniqueness of the sorority is that it is not a club which can be joined and then dropped at will. Sorority members are sisters for life, they all experience a special feeling a sense of needing and desiring each other and themselves which cannot be described. This term "sisterhood" applies to the women of Kappa Phi Omega and all agree that the sorority will have a great impact on their college years and many years after leaving B.S.C.
