Commuter Corner
By Kimberly J. Murphy
Staff Writer

Hello, and welcome once again to the wonderful world of commuting, via my wonderful article, "The Commuter Corner." I'd like to think all of those who managed to find me, for true soul I am. I neglected to leave any sort of address at which I may be contacted. Well, the place to get in touch with me will be The Commuter office, past bars have all been removed, with my name, no, I think of it, to find me. I've been on the one way or the other.

An Open Letter to the Resident Assistants

An Open Letter to the Resident Assistants of Bridgewater State College, Bridgewater, Massachusetts

This letter is intended for you, the resident assistants, who are the caretakers of the dormitories at Bridgewater State College. I am writing this letter in an attempt to address some of the issues that I, as a student, have been facing. My being a student at Bridgewater State College has been a challenging experience, especially with regards to the parking system. Therefore, I would like to bring some of these issues to your attention.

Firstly, when I drove into the lots at the beginning of the semester, I was informed by a number of people that I could not park my car because I was not a student or a faculty member. I was told that the only way to park was to pay for it, which I did, but for a few dollars and were charged. I also learned that no one on campus is allowed to park for free. This has become a significant burden for me and other students, especially with regards to the cost of living. It has become crucial for me to have a reliable mode of transportation, and for many others, this is necessary for their daily activities.

Secondly, the parking system at Bridgewater State College faces the same traffic as the rest of the city. More people, including students, are using the parking lots, which is a problem. We have heard that the lots are three-quarters full, and it is evident that more parking spaces are needed.

I am concerned about the parking situation at Bridgewater State College, and I believe that something needs to be done to address this issue. This is not only a matter of convenience but also a matter of safety. If someone is in an accident or needs medical attention, they may not have access to a car, and this could lead to delays in receiving medical care.

In conclusion, I urge you to consider these issues and take action to improve the parking situation at Bridgewater State College. It is important to ensure that students have access to reliable modes of transportation to attend classes, participate in extracurricular activities, and attend events on campus.

Sincerely,
[Your Name]

The Mass Observation of the Planet Earth had been bracingly hot; but, by the way, the Little Prince didn't seem to mind the heat. He was only one of those creatures who are unable to smell the very air! He took a little breath of the hot air and said, "Oh, how I love the weather!"

"That's a very special quality," said the Little Prince, with a smile. "It's not often that a mouse can stand the weather!"

"But what do you do when it is too hot?" asked the Dondegype.

"Why, I take a nap," said the Little Prince. "I take a nap every day."

"But what do you do when it is too cold?" asked the Dondegype.

"Why, I take a nap," said the Little Prince. "I take a nap every day."

"But what do you do when it is too hot?" asked the Dondegype.

"Why, I take a nap," said the Little Prince. "I take a nap every day.

Even so, the little mouse could not understand why the Little Prince didn't use his special quality to enjoy the weather. The mouse was content to take a nap when it was too hot or too cold, but he didn't see why the Little Prince didn't enjoy the weather.

The Little Prince continued, "I don't understand why you are so content to take a nap when it is too hot or too cold. Why don't you enjoy the weather?"

From IUPUI Students:

To Dance or Not to Dance

I want to try to bring a little lightness into this world of academic and student organization's for myself and for many other students. I have been getting a petition against my entrance for the past few weeks in order to present a better case, with full support of the faculty and the NCA Planners, in several concerned areas of the campus.

The dance is already approved by the faculty. The reason that the students are having trouble is because the faculty moved the location of the dance to a parking lot instead of the student union. The "student union" parking lot is a one-acre area, behind the student union, and has no more parking spaces than any of the other parking lots on campus. The students were very much against this, and so the dance was moved to a smaller area of the parking lot.

The students are demanding their own event space for the dance, not the student union, because the union space is already occupied by other events. The students want to keep the dance in the union, as it is their own space, and do not want the dance to be moved to another area. However, the students are also concerned about the safety of the parking lot, as it is not an area that is well lit or monitored. They are also concerned about the security of their belongings, as it is a parking lot, and not a secure area like the student union.

The students have been pushing for this movement for several weeks, and have been very vocal about their concerns. The dance is scheduled for the spring semester, and the students are hoping to see this issue resolved before then.

REVIEW/TRIUMPH — Follow Your Heart

After an excellent show by Triumph the happy thing is that the band made a video of Follow Your Heart. It should air on MTV in two weeks or so. Since I have never been in a video before, I was more than excited. Once
The band's music
is played by the lead singer Mock Emotions. Why they picked Triumph to do that is questionable.

The show was to have been given away to Mock Emotions but was changed to Triumph
at the last minute.

The show played again
and they took clips of Triumph and Andy. The shorts were great.

The music was electric and faster than the group's first 45. Some people thought it was

After an excellent show by Triumph over the weekend, the band made a video of Follow Your Heart. It should air on MTV in three weeks or so. Since I have never been in a video before, I was more than excited. One of the things they want to do is have a large smoke bomb go off at the climax of the song. It will guarantee the band is there to help with the video and also suspend a Triumph banner instantly. Quite a lot of people bought all different sorts of banners and all were displayed for the video.

Rik Emmett who had to be taken to hospital and let back out. and let back in.)

They thanked us and told us we were great video stars!!

Howard learned the soul-funkster, produced this album problem is the length. With only six songs, this is saddeningly one of Howard's six songs short.

The 12-inch dance/party album. The only sixteen started a while ago and has not stopped.

On February 20th, the single was released, making this a near-great album. Howard learned how to get people to dance. He uses both glory.

When the chill arrives near Causeway Street and North Station, and the Boarding School's men's hockey team (and students) head out for the Bean Pot. Fans take to the streets in droves, cheering on their favorite teams. The Bean Pot is a historic event dating back to 1924, held at Boston University's Agganis Arena. It is a hockey tournament between the Boston College Eagles and the Boston University Terriers. The tournament has been played annually since its inception and is considered one of the most prestigious college hockey events in the country.

In the world of college basketball, the Bean Pot is not without its own share of excitement. The women's basketball teams of Boston College and Boston University have been locked in a fierce rivalry for years. Last year, BC women's basketball team made a memorable comeback against BU, winning the Bean Pot once again after trailing by 18 points at halftime. The game was filled with drama, as BU's lead seemed insurmountable until BC's Players stepped up with key baskets and free throws in the final minutes. The game ended with BC holding the trophy, cementing their victory in the annual Bean Pot classic.

This year, the Bean Pot is expected to be another thrilling contest, with both teams looking to assert their dominance. The Boston College Eagles, led by Head Coach Steve Leonard, and the Boston University Terriers, with Head Coach Andy Hamilton, will be vying for the coveted Bean Pot trophy. With both teams boasting talented rosters and strong fan bases, the Bean Pot is sure to be a must-see event for college basketball enthusiasts.

"Skater" hit the Kelly Family's hallowed soils on a recent trip to New York. This past season was one of the most successful years for the East Coast teams. The season opened with a bang at the New York State Championships, where the East Coast teams took home several medals. The season continued with a string of strong performances, culminating in the East Coast Championships, where the East Coast teams again dominated. The season ended with the East Coast Invitational, where the East Coast teams once again showed their dominance.

The East Coast teams are looking forward to another successful season in the coming year. The team is excited about the opportunities that lie ahead and is ready to take on any challenge that comes their way. The team is confident in their ability to perform at the highest level and is determined to bring home the gold.

B.S.C. Swimmers

The Bridgeview State College swimming teams have had a successful season thus far. The men’s team has won their last two meets against Rizzuto and S триам and are currently ranked 2-2 (2-2) and 2-2 (2-2). The women’s team has won all their meets against S триам and are currently ranked 2-2 (2-2). The meet against S триам is scheduled for next weekend and the teams are looking forward to a tough challenge.

B.S.C.'s Big Game

By Doug Benson

This was a game of nerves—a game of butterflies in the stomach—a game that was everything it was cracked up to be—by the Lady Bears pulled off a 1-point victory over the Vikings of Salem State in an action packed thriller.

The Comment
Monday, February 11, 1985

By Kelly Gym, nobody in the over-capacity crowd would have expected that with 9 seconds left Joanne Runge would bury two pressure throws to seal another victory.

Periodically, "The Wave hit the gym and the noise totally engulfed the arena, but when Runge stood at the foul line gazing at the net, even the Bridgewater Bears mascot (who had led The Wave throughout the game) stood and watched frozen in his steps as last season's N.E. Rookie of the Year sunk both spine chilling shots.

It was extremely close throughout. The biggest lead was six points, coming late in the first half. It was 26-22, B.S.C. at half time. Mid-way through the second half both teams were running, step-in-step as the lead changed hands a number of times as Salem State pulled even at 46, however, with 2:14 remaining Joanne Runge buried a three point play after being fouled on an incredible, nearly impossible, tightrope-toeing shot, making it 49-46.

As the clock wound down, S.S.C.'s Sue Mulrean was fouled and hit one of two narrowing the gap to one with just :37 seconds left. After a Bridgewater timeout, Runge was fouled with :9 seconds remaining and hit both free throws, making it 51-48.

It wasn't over yet. Evelyn Oquendo, Salem's resident sharp shooter, took a pass from her teammate, dribbled down the court and put up one last shot at buzzer, but the ball hit the hoop and into Cathy Baker's waiting hands. The game and MASCAC championship, for all intents and purposes, were firmly in the grasp of the number one Lady Bears.

Dear P.J.

I am a thirteen year old female who is currently seeing a guy who is a different religion than myself. My position is clear-cut time wise. I only date guys of my own religion and faith. This is not fair to me! I have been sneaking around behind their backs, and feel very guilty. How can I convince them that even though he is not of "our" religions, I love him and that they get to know him they would like him too.

B.S.C.'s Big Game

This was a game of nerves—a game of butterflies in the stomach—a game that was everything it was cracked up to be— as the Lady Bears pulled off a 111-1 game victory over the Vikings of Sears in an all-time packed thriller. As McClellan Gym, nobody in the over-capacity crowd would have expected that with 9 seconds left, Justice Range would bury two pressure throwers to seal another injury. Particularly, "The Wave hit the gym and the noise totally engulfed the arena, but when Range stood at the free-throw line at the end, the Broadmoor Bear fans started in the Student Center and the game itself throughout the gym continued to rain and snow from the rafters to the pults in last year's N.E. Rookie of the Year's backcourt silence drew them to clinch the game for B.S.C."

It was extremely close throughout. The biggest lead was six points, coming late in the first half at 111-105. Sears led 111-111 at the half time. Midway through the second half, both teams were running step-by-step to the aid of the backboard, and the same number of fans, Broadmoor upset so many times (leading 111-111 going to 111-111 at 5-78 (leading 111-111 at 5-78) - the Bear fans pulled even at 111-111, however, with 11 minutes remaining, putting the losing streak on a three-point play after having four straight baskets. We knew we had it on them, impossible, gaining confidence, tightening the score, making it 111-111.

As the clock wound down, S.C.'s Sue Melton was fouled and hit one of two from the line closing the gap to 111-111. After giving up a three-pointer early in the game, Sue then hung up a three and one at 111-111, and got fouled by the Lady Bears, making it 111-111, tying the game back up at 111-111.

It wasn't over just yet. Evelyn Quiquero, Saleta's resident sharp shooter, took a pass from her teammate, dribbled down the court and put up one last shot. It was too late, and Range made the free throw as the game clocked out at 111-111.

This sale will not be announced to the public until Sunday, February 17th.
