Volleyball

Bridgewater State's women's volleyball team started its season off in a dismal fashion, losing their first three matches. However, they have rebounded to win six of their last four games and now stand at a respectable 3-4.

The resurgence began against Stonehill College, as they outlasted their nearby opponents, 3-2. Their next opponent was D'Amore, with BSC again coming out on top of a 3-2 decision. Game scores were (11-15, 15-13, 15-10, 14-15, 15-4) in their first MASCAC conference match, against North Adams State, the Lady Bears won no set, as they polished off 9-2 opponents (15-6, 15-4), (15-4) in a little over forty minutes.

The winning milieu continued against Clark this past weekend, and after 9 P.M. Call anyone on the weekends.

Choosing your child's primary care physician is a major decision. And to help you make the right choices, this month's Health Tip gives you advice on what to look for when selecting a pediatrician.

One often-heard reason for choosing a pediatrician is cost. But it's important to remember that the best pediatrician for your child is the one you feel most comfortable with. You should feel free to ask questions and express your concerns to your pediatrician. And you should feel respected and heard.

In addition to cost, here are some other factors to consider when choosing a pediatrician:

1. Experience: Look for a pediatrician who has been in practice for several years. An experienced pediatrician will have more knowledge and expertise in treating children's health conditions.

2. Location: Consider the location of the pediatrician's office. Is it convenient for you to get there? Does the office have adequate parking facilities?

3. Staff: A good pediatrician will have a well-trained team of nurses, receptionists, and other staff members.

4. Cost: Consider the cost of seeing the pediatrician. Some pediatricians accept insurance, while others may require you to pay out-of-pocket.

5. Reviews: Check online reviews and recommendations from other parents who have used the pediatrician.

Choosing the right pediatrician is an important decision. Take your time, do your research, and choose the pediatrician that feels right for you and your family.
Deadline approaching for Fulbright scholarships

The 1987-88 competition for grants for graduate study abroad offered under the Fulbright Program is open for application. Scholarships and fellowships are available to US citizens with three to five years of university study who wish to pursue advanced study and research abroad during the 1987-88 academic year.

The Fulbright Program, the largest and most prestigious of the US government's educational programs, is intended to promote friendly relations and understanding among the people of the US and the peoples of other countries. For this reason, Fulbright scholars must be selected on the basis of high academic achievement and potential for making the greatest contribution to the development of their home countries.

Eligibility:

1. Applicants must be citizens of the US and have completed a bachelor's degree by the time of departure.
2. Applicants must be within three years of completing a bachelor's degree or within five years of completing a master's degree.
3. Applicants cannot hold a Ph.D. or have previously held a Fulbright scholarship.
4. Applicants must have achieved at least a B average in all undergraduate study and at least a B+ average in all graduate study.
5. Applicants must be willing to accept positions in the countries where they are chosen.
6. Applicants must be recommended by their department or institution.

Application Process:

1. Applicants must submit a complete application to their institution's Fulbright Program office by October 15, 1987.
2. Institutions will review applications and select candidates for submission to the Fulbright Program in Washington, DC.
3. Selected candidates will be notified by December 1, 1987.

For more information, contact your institution's Fulbright Program office or visit the Fulbright Program website at http://fulbright.state.gov.

Deadline for applications is October 15, 1987.

After bringing this subject to a point, Prof. Sanders defended his views, dismissing James' use of a Pteronyxin reason to the peregrinatures to prove that no connection existed.

Soon, the panel discussion ended and questions were succeeded in making his points, but did contrast that he could defend only "some" porketry.

Lunch should be offered at Shea/Durgin hall

Shea/Durgin Hall is getting ridiculous. Otherwise, the situation is not too bad. I counted 26 students who showed up for lunch in the last week. The problem could be solved immediately.

By: Joe Macarevich

The Bridgewater State College wrestling program is looking for a new coach. The position has been available since 1985 and has not been filled because of a lack of student interest. I brought this problem to the attention of the student body.

Quickly now, does Gilley's in the Tents, The Brown Bag in New York, and the Second Floor of the Clement C. Maxwell Library in Bridgewater all have in common?

Go on.

They are all loud, raping places that coexist for people to enjoy drinks and comminication. Fortunately for Gilley's, when the bar is reputed to be two-hundred yards long, and company, coquettish, and when she lost Star Bar, and The Hard Rock, famous for its good food and popular music, fire fits functions. Unfortunately for the Maxwell Library, the form of the Second Floor is forced far away from its original, intended function.

The Second Floor is a large, spectacularly redundant flamed with windows with a patio-type roof over the area. In the area are located eight to ten pink and magnesium tables seating four to six persons at a time. There are five or six chairs around the bookshelves facing toward the lobby and stairs. Between them in the morning and two in the afternoon, Monday through Friday. This is a 10-room, small, catchment, and bookshelves to achieve. Unfortun-

Lunch should be offered at Shea/Durgin hall

Let's face it. The lunch time situation at Tillotson Dining Hall is getting ridiculous. Other than the food, there is the lack of seating arrangements and the large number of attendants involved in the lunch serving. Recently, three food service workers remarked an average of over 900 students eating at the dining facility during the lunch hours. During a one hour period, they said, over 600 students had been served.

This is one of those problems that seem to resurface every fall. In fact, about two years ago The Comment published an editorial concerning overcrowding on the campus. The editorial was titled "You put the cafeteria staff to work in a very serious way.

The conditions at Tillotson were discussed. This problem continues while a solution appears appear.

The dining hall at Shea/Durgin halls should be used to serve lunch.

Since the hall is already built, little cost would be incurred. New jobs could be created for work study students. The program could be implemented immediately.

With so few visible obstacles, the only question remaining is, "Who's stopping us?"

Approximately 400 students live at the hall. If they don't have a clan on the lower campus, they have to walk a long way to wait in a long line. That doesn't make sense. Why don't we serve them where they live?

Bridgewater State College wrestler wants varsity team

By Jose Marafante

The Bridgewater State College wrestling team is just that—a wrestling team. The team is not only a group of athletes who compete together, but also a group of students who come together for a common goal. The team is currently coached by Kris Ferreira, who has been with the program for several years. He has led the team to several successful seasons, and his dedication and hard work have earned him the respect of his players and the Bridgewater community.

Queens of the Morning Airwaves

Carolyn Fox, radio personality for WHJY, Providence

By Bat Pernuts

Today, radio, racy, and sometimes offensive. Queens of the early morning airwaves and the early morning candy. This is Carolyn Fox. Let's hear what it's all about.

The queen of the morning, Ms. Fox, takes over the airwaves with a distinctive, sexy voice, her go-getter personality suggested a radio in itself. The show is all about fun and humor.

Ms. Fox's radio career began with a position as a part-time newsreader for WGBN, an AM station. "I had my fingers crossed," Fox said, and as the shift began, and as her fingers crossed, it was a great success. The job was a hit, and soon she was heard regularly.

Ms. Fox's next gig was WBRU, Brown University's station, where she was doing a more relaxed, risque, and risqué format. Eventually, she was given a position as a part-time newsreader for WHJY, the lotus flower.

This is Carolyn Fox. The queen of the morning airwaves. The queen of the morning candy.

They took the last train to Foxboro

Under an overcast sky, 50,000 fans filled one end of Skydome Stadium on September 28 to see the Monkees, who in 1966, were known for their good looks and hit songs, as they stopped production. The fans at Skydome, without their Monkees, watched with concern, some just days shy of the end of their 20th Anniversary World Tour.

After kicking off the long-awaited version of their 50th anniversary tour, the Monkees started their set, which included all their most popular songs. The audience didn’t seem to get into the music, however, as many fans were distracted by the “Daydream Believer” AM/FM radio signal. All 15,000 fans stood along with the main event, which gave a dramatic effect to the show.

Round Midnight

The tough life of a jazz musician

By Linde Caoledina

In the mood for a little jazz? “Round Midnight” is a movie examining the life of American jazz musician Thelonious Monk, one of the last rock ’n’ roll stars in New York and in the late ’50s, the writer of the jazz standard “Round Midnight.”

Written and directed by Dexter Gordon, who is shown doing two long runs across the stage.

Round Midnight was produced and released in 1986 by MCA Records.

Bon Jovi gives rock a good name

By Don Lang

A Saturday night is always prime time for a good concert and this was no exception.

The opening show was “Talk to Me, Paul,” from his brand new album. The music was tight and the atmosphere electric. The entire album sounds like it was recorded in one take. The entire audience was on their feet.

The Monkees were presented here from the hands of the ’60s and early ’70s. “Herman’s Hermits,” were one of the original bands. However, this movie is a shining light through the darkness. The Monkees are the perfect group to tell the story.

The Monkees presented here from the hands of Paul, with his original lead singer Peter Noone, played the longest (half an hour). With a different lead singer, the group didn’t have a distinctive sound, while Peter Noone’s voice was more distinct and powerful.

Next Gary Rhymer, with his strong distinctive singing, high-volume and dynamic style, stood out. For his second dramatic performance, the personification of the Monkees, the moniker highlighted by the fact that the show was a half-hour long, becoming half the Monkees were a Demi on one side of the stage. In one of their best moments, the group enjoyed the appearance of the Monkees, the loneliness of being a jazz musician, the feeling of being alone. This is the way the Monkees always used to be.

Monkees Management

The entire album sounds like a collection of songs from a film, with the music being reprinted for the stage. The album reprinted in 1986 by MCA Records.

Under an overcast eight knot, 30- knot gale (first one of the season) Sept. 24, in the wake of Hurricane Marsha, the Monkees played a stormy, high-energy show that was held at the South Shore Amphitheater. Some 20,000 fans in attendance.

It was a beautiful night, with a hint of rain as the Monkees took the stage. The band played a set of their hits, including "Daydream Believer," "I'm A Believer," and "Pleasant Valley Sunday," with which they opened the show.

The Monkees, now in their mid-30s, played a setlist that was reminiscent of their early-70s sound. The band's energy was high, with lead vocalist Micky Dolenz leading the group with a sense of humor and playfulness.

The show was a tributary to the Monkees' past, with covers of their hits and a few new songs. The band performed "I'm A Believer," "Pleasant Valley Sunday," and "Daydream Believer," all three of which have been staples of their live shows.

Round Midnight

The tough life of a jazz musician

By Lorraine Calepieda

In the mood for a little jazz? "Round Midnight" is a movie arriving in theaters this weekend at the Fox and New World in the late '50s, at the beginning of the cool jazz movement in Paris at Francis Papieras' bar, "Round Midnight," in Paris. The movie is based on the life of Thelonious Monk, one of the most important jazz pianists of the 20th century.

Duke Ellington had his great album, "Symphony in Blue," and Miles Davis his "Miles Ahead," but Thelonious Monk had neither. Monk was an enigma, a genius, and a man with a troubled life. He was known for his unpredictable behavior and his love of drugs and alcohol.

In "Round Midnight," we see Monk's life through the eyes of his daughter, Laura. The film is a beautiful portrait of Monk's life, from his early days as a musician in Chicago to his later years in Paris.

The film is a love letter to Monk and a celebration of his music. It is a film that will inspire and challenge audiences to think about the nature of creativity and the role of the artist in our society. "Round Midnight" is a must-see film for anyone who loves jazz and loves a good story.

The Electric Light Orchestra

Maurice Wright, ELO's lead vocalist, was born on September 15th. He is 69 years old. He was a member of the band ELO (Electric Light Orchestra) from its inception in 1974 until its break-up in 1986.

ELO was formed by Jeff Lynne, a British musician, producer, and songwriter. Lynne had previously worked with the Mersey Beatles and the Idle Army, a band that played covers of songs by the Beatles.

ELO's sound is a blend of rock and pop, with elements of symphonic music. The band's most famous songs include "Silence in the Studios," "Mr. Blue Sky," and "Can't Get It Out of My Head.

ELO's most successful album was "Out of the Blue," which was released in 1977. The album featured hits like "Sweet Talkin' Woman," "Showdown," and "Mr. Blue Sky.

ELO continued to tour and record throughout the 1980s and 1990s, but the band eventually broke up in 1986. Since then, Lynne has formed a new band called Jeff Lynne's ELO.

Soccer streak halted

By Bill Bideaux

The Bridgewater State Men's Soccer team has had an inexcusable season thus far. After playing their best game of the year on Thursday at S.M.U., the Bears lost to UMass/Boston Saturday and Sunnymede College on Tuesday. Both losses came at home.

Last Thursday, the Bears took on S.M.U. in Dartmouth and played their best game of the season. Bridgewater controlling the game. The Bears had 19 shots while keeping S.M.U. at bay. Goalie Andy Karpary was forced to make only five stops in the game. Bridgewater took the lead in the first half on a Jeff Turner goal, assisted by Frank Zekas. In the second half, they put the game away with a score by Tom Doyle. Ian Harley assisted on the game's go-ahead goal.

Saturday, the Bridgewater men's soccer team traveled to Boston to take on Northeastern. The Bears played well, but were met by a physical offense that could not be stopped.

The Bears went on a 3-2 victory over Northeastern. The Bears fell behind early, but equalized in the second half. The Bears outshot Northeastern 30-15, but were unable to score a goal. Bridge-

Water Polo undefeated

The Bridgewater State College Water Polo Club recently achieved two of its biggest wins of the season. The team had 50-40 and a first place showing in the New England College Water Polo Conference.

After an impressive opening win over Clark, the Bears hosted their next four games before large student turnouts. Holy Cross was the first victim, losing 27-13. From Goodrich scored 5 goals for Bridgewater, while defenseman Mike Young scored 2, making the score 18-11. The Bears then faced Williams College, losing 13-2.

Bears College was the next in line and fell to the Bears, 16-7. Goodrich and Bryan King each had 7 goals. Denny Asai tallied 3 and Mike Young twice.

Faucett again played a strong game, but a strong defense from the Bears limited their scoring. The Bears then faced Castleton State College, losing 18-2. Goodrich and Bryan King again combined for 10 goals. Denny Asai tallied 3 and Mike Young twice.

Saturday, Wesleyan University was not able to field enough players and forfeited, 5-0. Tennis Polo Conference proved to be the Bears' biggest win of the season, topping show 5-11. After an even first period, the Bears pulled away in the last 5-6, and never looked back. Robert Goodrich scored twice more times, while King and Young added two each.

The Bridgewater State Men’s Soccer team has had an inconsistent season thus far. After playing their best game of the year at UMass-Boston on September 16th, the Bears lost by a score of 3-2 to Stonehill College on Tuesday. Both teams came to battle.

Last Thursday, the Bears took on UMass/Boston and came away with their best game of the season. Bridgewater totalmente controlled the game. The Bears had 19 shots while keeping UMass/Boston at bay. Goalie Andy Karparis was forced to make only six saves in the game. Bridgewater took the lead in the first half on a Jeff Graves goal, assisted by Frank Zimante. In the second half, they put the game away with a score by Tom Doyle. Ian Harley assumed the win against Stonehill.

Stonehill was the stronger team for the first half of the game. They finished the half with a score on a rebound that Karparis let get away. Bridgewater’s best chance to win it all came when Tom Doyle scored on a rebound that Karparis let get away. Stonehill’s second goal was scored by a player in front of the net. Karparis did not see the rebound.

In the second half, the Bears took control of the game. The Bears had 19 shots while keeping Stonehill at bay. Goalie Andy Karparis was forced to make only six saves in the game. Campus pro-life group meets

By Brent F. Rossi

An organizational meeting for a new pro-life group was held in the Cardinal Center on Sep. 21.

Organizer Barbara Dilene began the meeting by stating that it was necessary for the group to counter the pro-abortion movement here at Bridgewater. She said the group was to distribute literature to students so they would “see both sides of the issue” in relation to Question FI on the ballot on the Nov. 4 referendum. If passed, this would give the State Legislature the power to regulate abortion, both intrauterine and birth control, and if so decided, to stop them altogether. Dilene would also like the group to organize and call a gathering soon.

Before any planning could start, three students, who support the production movement, opposed the new group. This discussion lasted approximately half an hour. The pro-abortion advocates, however, maintained that this was a private matter and that the group was not even a concern.

All three of the parents were surprised to find themselves speaking before thirty- five students and faculty. The meeting continued the discussion began.

The meeting was held in the Cardinal Center, with students and faculty free to enter any time. The group has already plans to meet twice a month, with the first meeting held at 10:00 a.m. on October 15.

The organizer, Dilene, is a junior biology major and is currently planning the organization of the group. She is also organizing a pro-life group that will meet on the weekends and will be a national organization.
