World Food Day declared at BSC

Joining colleges across the state, President Indelicato has declared Thursday, October 16th, as World Food Day here at BSC. Cities to cities, as well as with MASSPREG, and the associate David Emmons, we will work with the National Student Campaign Against Hunger, and hope to improve the problem of local hunger that is prominent right here in Bridgewater and other surrounding communities.

"One thousand people die each month from hunger," Dudley said, "and 3 out of 4 of them children! Our goal is for the entire college community to join us and President Indelicato in making World Food Day a great success."

On Wednesday, October 16th, and Thursday, Oct. 17th, MASSPREG will have a canned (non-perishable) food drive. Any donations can be made at booths that will be set up by the bookstore in the SU. Other tables, set up in the week preceding, will be staffed by lovers and volunteers.

Kennedy Library Fall Programs

The John F. Kennedy Library is pleased to announce as its focus for fall 1986. The first program, "1986 Congressional and Governmental Elections: Will the Voters Reflect the Unprecedented Political Observers of Massachusetts Political Life," announced a panel of political observers who will discuss the candidates and issues in the campaign and how the results will be felt in the White House. On October 14, Massachusetts political leaders and activists will debate four referendum issues on the November ballot: abortion, the financing of education, taxes, and the seat belt law. Doe less, "Boston Harbor: A Look at the History, Purity and Potential of our Nation's Most Important Natural Resource," on October 21, environmentalists, government officials, and concerned citizens will discuss the problems caused by pollution and community efforts to integrate the harbor for environmental and recreational reasons.

One week later, "Organized Labor in Massachusetts," will examine the changes and challenges faced as the state's post-industrial economy changes the work force and the work place.

On November 5, a look at the winners of four Massachusetts leaders—Henry Cabot Lodge, John Fitzgerald, Calvin Coolidge, and David L. Wyche—will mark the local and national political scene in America during the twentieth century. Our final session on November 18, "The United States Intravagueness Issues," will focus on the complex and incomprehensible nature of our newest cultural caution. Cultural politics and policy and the impact of recent economic realities on the future of political and social life.

All are invited to all the John F. Kennedy Library fall series. The series that will be in the public and free. All refreshments are required. A reception will follow each program in the Library's parlor. To make reservations call 929-4371 or 929-4385.

World Food Day declared at BSC

Joining colleges across the state, President Fredricke has declared Thursday, October 14, World Food Day here at BSC. Clerk of the Senate, working with MASSPIRG, and the associate David T. Tomaro, we will be working with the National Student Campaign Against Hunger, and hope to improve the problem of local hunger that is prominent right here in Bridgewater and in surrounding communities.

"One million people die each month from hunger," Daley said, "and 3 out of 4 of them children! Our goal is for the entire college community to join us and President Fredricke in making World Food Day a great success.

On Wednesday, and Thursday, and Tuesday, Oct. 18, MASSPIRG will be having a canned (non-refrigerateable) food drive. Any donations can be made at 1stub, which will be set up by the bookstore in the S.U. Other stuff will be set up in the work prevailing, and will be staffed by MASSPIRG students distributing literature on hunger or inform the student body on how to stop the hunger problem really is. Some work has already been completed by MASSPIRG in opposition hunger, and there will be a lot to do," said Bob Conley, BSC chapter chair for MASSPIRG. "We are hoping to make a big impact on this issue to stop hunger and also the problem of calories completely, and to do that, we need to keep an eye on our muncher - students have told us that they can make a difference, so here is a how, there is very little to be done.

Other hunger projects planned for the future by BSC-PIRG included bringing in a local soup kitchen to do a hungry hunger to take place sometime this spring. November 8th PIRG urges students to dig out those old cans and save them for World Food Day and to remember that "every little bit helps."

Consider the question before casting your ballot

Question 1. It's a tough question.

The wording of the ballot question is vague, to be sure. Somehow the issue has been left in legal purgatory.

Should the state have the power to prohibit abortions? Abortion has been the subject of many debates. It is a question that refuses to die, perhaps because the definitions have not yet emerged. Perhaps the answer lies in the minds of individuals. Let's examine the arguments for both sides.

Much of the debate focuses on when life begins. When, during the nine months abortion has been discussed. But Question I is actually more focused, you would have heard in refer to a fetus as a "person," and more than a "product," which is dependent on the mother's. What is the life is in a fetus and not the mother.

In some cases right and wrong are easily discernible. This happens when an over-powering morality, or self-righteousness, or social guidelines are determined. This is not the case with abortion. There is no overwhelming majority.

This editorial focuses strictly on abortion. Questions of the morality of abortion have been discussed. But Question I is a question for every individual.

To vote in favor of Question I does not indicate a lack of support for abortion. It indicates a belief that the state should have the power to prohibit abortions, which is a different question.

Dear Editor:

I'm really upset about Eleanor...that there is hope for those who didn't go through this humiliating experience.

Karen Medeiros founded over the large signs of "prize" pages on New. At was spread across the dragnet that was the proposed amendment would restrict public access to abortion, as well as limit the access to clinics. As editor, it is your responsibility to ensure that news be reported as accurately and objectively as possible. This story was not only inaccurate, it was, we feel, biased. It embarrassed the pro-life position by presenting our arguments in a negative manner. We expect better than this. Our object was reporting the thing held on to me so that I couldn't sleep for weeks and months. I recently became aware that abortion is a matter of fact to me. I had had, I thought, about my abortion, but my mind I kept God's commandment, that whatever a special gift. I gave to women and that much loved children.

Consider the question before casting your ballot

Question 1. It's a tough question.

The wording of the ballot question is vague, to be sure. Somehow the issue has been less than clear in public discourse.

Should the state have the power to prohibit abortions? Abortion has been the subject of many debates. It's a question that refuses to die, perhaps because the definitions are unclear or not clear. Perhaps the answer lies in the minds of individuals. Let's turn our attention to these arguments for and against abortion.

Much of the debate focuses on the question of when life begins.

This question itself is debatable. How do we actually begin? From an evolutionary perspective, life begins when a root of fertilization. Or does it? When do the sperm and the egg make a zygote? Of course, that's an evolutionary perspective. Nobody can answer the philosophical question of when a new life begins. When? During the nine months of pregnancy? Before that is the question of pro-choice or pro-life arguments. It's a question whether or not the state should have the power to prohibit abortions, which is a different issue.

To vote no on Question 1 does not indicate a lack of support for abortion as it is practiced. It is a question whether or not the state should have the power to prohibit abortions, which is a different issue.

Voice of experience opposes abortion

Dear Editor,

I'm really upset about Eleanor Sneed's article on Monday. The influence she has on so many women is unbelievable. All things should oppose the death of a mother's choice. What a disgusting article. I gave her articles to women and how women love children. The guilt of the choice is not known. I'm thinking about the impact on women and their lives. I have been with a woman over two years and I have known that she had abortions. I don't know if she is single. She is just a woman's choice. I'm thinking about the idea of a woman's decision. I remember her, and what I want to express is that, I'm talking about believing that having an abortion is a matter of fact.

Student voices: comment story

Karen Medeiros, one of Bridgewater's finest.

By Roger Spring

Karen Medeiros created the largest Evergreen project in the history of the Student Union. She worked on this project for most of the semester, and was involved in passing 11 pieces of legislation. She was a member of the Student Union Program Committee (S.U.P.C.) and was involved with the legislation. The S.U.P.C. is composed of five subcommittees. The subcommittee included the entertainment subcommittee.

Karen Medeiros created another MASSPIRG sponsored ballot that would allow the voters to go to their local town hall to vote in the ballot. The bill was passed only after MASSPIRG had collected enough signatures to have the legislation placed on the ballot.

Before this law was passed, the state could not override legislation. The question was placed on the ballot, and the public was divided. Daley said, "That's the law and its popular. Our legislature is composed of people who make decisions for the state.

Dancing Undercover

By Bob Lang

When Van Halen was signed by Warner Brothers Records in 1978, every band in Los Angeles sat up and took notice. Once their debut album exploded on to the national scene, Van Halen, and LA, became heavy metal super powers.

As a result, for a period of several years, several bands flourished. LA record companies scoured the city for the next Van Halen. Fortunately, most of the excess has faded out. Some bands, such as Quiet Riot and Motley Crue started out hot but are showing signs of fading popularity as their audience matures. Other groups, like Dokken and Ratt, are still strong due to a high degree of television exposure. Bands like Dokken and Ratt, are still strong due to a high degree of television exposure.

One thing about Ratt—for a heavy metal band, they do pen some songs you can stick your head on to. Although Robin Crosby and Warren DeMartini play blinding double leads, and are a definite beefier bunch than their predecessor, a deft bassist is often the missing link. Put together, Ratt is an excellent band. Their new album, Ratt, has been one of the better sellers of the past year.

When Ratt first hit the music scene, they were heavily influenced by Led Zeppelin, the Rolling Stones and even Frank Zappa. Their first album was released in 1978, and their second, “Dancing Undercover,” was released in 1982. Both albums were released on the Geffen label.

On Dancing Undercover, the lead vocals are supplied by singer Stephen Pearcy. When Pearcy first heard “Dancing Undercover,” he thought it was too soft and lacked the heavier sound he was looking for. He then went into the studio and recorded the album. Pearcy’s vocals are simply amazing. He has a powerful and unique voice that is perfect for this type of music.

The music on Dancing Undercover is a mix of hard rock and new wave. The songs are well written and catchy. “I’m a Believer,” “You Can’t Stop Dancing,” “Can’t Hold Me Down,” and “Love Ain’t Right” are all standout tracks.

Stephen Pearcy, who is also a musician, is the lead singer for the band. He has a powerful voice and a great stage presence. His delivery is full of passion and energy, which is perfect for the music. He is also a skilled musician, playing both guitar and bass.

The band’s sound is a mix of heavy metal and new wave. The instrumentals are well played, with the guitar riffs being particularly memorable.

Overall, Dancing Undercover is a strong album that showcases Pearcy’s talent as a singer and musician. It is a must-listen for fans of hard rock and new wave music.
