HE WAS THERE TO RECOGNIZE THE IMPORTANCE OF THE WINGS AND THEIR SIGNIFICANCE TO THE SCHOOL'S HISTORY.

Dr. Fiore, the president of the college, addressed the attendees. He spoke about the importance of the college's history and its contributions to the community. He highlighted the college's role in providing education and opportunities for students. He also discussed the challenges and successes the college has faced over the years.

The theme of the event was "The Evolution of Higher Education." Attendees were able to learn about the history of higher education, the evolution of the college's curriculum, and the impact of the college on the community.

Dr. Fiore spoke about the importance of preserving history, not just for the sake of history, but for the future generations. He emphasized the need to keep the stories of the college's history alive so that future students can understand the college's past and its role in shaping the current educational system.

During the event, attendees were able to explore exhibits and interact with displays that showcased the college's history. They were able to see memorabilia, photos, and other artifacts that tell the story of the college's past.

The event was a success, with many attendees expressing their appreciation for the opportunity to learn about the college's history. Dr. Fiore's speech was particularly well-received, as he highlighted the importance of history in shaping the college's future.

Dr. Fiore ended the event by thanking the attendees for their participation and encouraging them to continue to support and promote the college's history.

The campus administration has announced that Apple Inc. will be sponsoring a new computer science program at the college. The program will be called the Apple Education Program and will provide students with state-of-the-art technology to enhance their learning experience.

The program will include access to Apple's latest software and hardware, as well as opportunities for students to work with Apple engineers on real-world projects. The program will also offer workshops and training sessions to help students develop their skills and prepare for careers in the tech industry.

In addition to the computer science program, Apple will also sponsor a new app development competition for students. The competition will be open to all students and will provide a chance for them to showcase their talent and creativity.

The college administration is excited about the opportunity to partner with Apple and is confident that the program will be a huge success. They believe that the program will help to attract more students to the computer science program and will help to prepare them for successful careers in the tech industry.

Dr. Fiore concluded his remarks by thanking Apple for their support and inviting the attendees to join them in celebrating the new program.

Dr. Fiore's speech was followed by a panel discussion with students and faculty members. The panelists discussed their experiences with the new program and shared their thoughts on the importance of technology in the classroom.

The event was a success, with many attendees expressing their enthusiasm for the new program and their support for the college's efforts to stay at the forefront of technological innovation.
Theatre Sans Fil Brings Tolkien to Life

By Lis Hinson

The stage adaptation of J.R.R. Tolkien’s work, The Lord of the Rings, is presented at the Theatre, 810 Main St. The play, presented by the Theatre, Sans Fil, combines poetry, music, and dance to offer an experience of the adventure of Frodo’s quest to destroy the One Ring. The adaptation was directed by David MacDonald.

The play is a two-hour performance of the books, The Lord of the Rings and The Hobbit, spanning the tale of the Fellowship of the Ring. It opened on January 12, 1986, and audiences were treated to a journey through Middle-earth, meeting the characters and following their adventures. The production was a collaboration between the artists at Sans Fil, who brought their unique style and creativity to transform Tolkien’s epic story into a compelling theatrical experience.

Motorhead: Forefathers of speed metal

By Bob Lasg

Motorhead has been lauded as a major force in the heavy metal genre, with their distinctive sound and stage presence. The band is known for their fast-paced, aggressive style and has influenced many other bands in the metal and hard rock genres.

In a recent interview, frontman Lemmy Kilmister spoke about the band’s origins and the importance of the garage bands that preceded them. "We were the forefathers of speed metal," he said. "We were the ones who laid down the foundation for heavy metal music."

Motorhead was formed in London in 1974, and quickly gained a reputation for their raw energy and high-speed performances. They released their debut album in 1977, and have since become one of the most influential and respected bands in the heavy metal scene.

The way it should be

By David Speirs

The debut album by Bruce Hornsby and the Range, which includes the song "The Way It Is," features a classical, R&B, and Latin influence. "The Way It Is" is a classic example of Hornsby's ability to blend different musical styles into a cohesive sound. The song was released in 1986, and quickly climbed the charts, reaching number one in several countries.

It's not often that a band is able to create a song that not only captures the spirit of its time, but also stands the test of time. "The Way It Is" is one such song, and it remains a beloved favorite for fans of all ages. The song's timeless message of love and understanding continues to resonate with listeners today.

Three Rings for Eowyn, Three for the Dwarf Lords, One for the Foot, Fingolfin's dead, Dain is dead, Dain is dead, One Ring to Rule Them All. The Lord of the Rings, Where the Shadow is.

The stage adaptation of J.R.R. Tolkien's fantasy novel, The Lord of the Rings, is currently in rehearsal at the Shubert Theatre. This is the first time the much-anticipated stage version of the hit film will be presented to New York audiences.

The production, directed by David B. Groff, will star Bruce Harmsby as Gandalf, the senior member of the main cast. The cast includes such notable actors as John lithgow as Frodo Baggins, Anthony Hopkins as Bilbo Baggins, and Robert Redford as Aragorn.

The story takes place in Middle-earth, a land inhabited by various races, including humans, elves, dwarves, and orcs. The main character, Frodo Baggins, is tasked with destroying the One Ring, a powerful object created by the Dark Lord Sauron, which threatens to destroy Middle-earth.

The show promises to be a visually stunning and epic adventure, with intricate set designs and special effects. The cast has been praised for their dedication and commitment to the role, with many of them having years of experience in the industry.

The opening night is scheduled for next month, with tickets already on sale. The production is expected to run for several weeks, with a possible extension depending on audience demand.

BSC leads in Smith Cup race

By Mike Stone

With the full sports season now over, it's that time of year when all-MASCAC college sports start tabulating the points that each has earned through the various sports they compete in and see how they fared against each other in the overall Smith Cup standings.

Well done, Bridgewater State College, as the defending Smith Cup winners, still have a lock on first place with twenty-three (23) points to lead Westfield State (20), Salem State (13) and North Adams (12).

Of the fourteen sports that the MASCAC colleges compete in, BSC competes in fifteen with eight coming during the fall season. To attain points for the Smith Cup, a team must finish among the top three positions in the conference, with first place getting six points, second place four and third place two.

In the case of track and cross country, there is one day meet with top finishers gaining 5-2-1 points.

Bridgewater had an outstanding fall as they_workflow MASCAC Championships in both football and women's tennis. The Bears took second place in field hockey, volleyball, and men's cross country. Men's tennis took third place.

The Bears competes in the MASCAC sports of men's and women's basketball in the winter and softball, baseball, and track in the spring.

Director of Athletics Bob Refor said, "It's not unheard of with Bridgewater's early lead in the Smith Cup standings. "Our programs have progressed to an even higher level than we anticipated. If we continue this progression into the winter and spring seasons, and I think we will, the Smith Cup should come once again be the property of Bridgewater."

BSC runners compete in NCAA finals

by Mike Sweeney

When Mike Sweeney, a resident of Brattleboro, VT, and a seniors at Bridgewater State College, received All-American Honors in cross country for his eighth place finish in the NCAA Division III race at Freedom State College in Fredonia, NY last Saturday (11/22/86). Greg finished the five mile race with a time of 27:47, and was one of two New England runners to receive the All-American honors.

"The N.C.A.A. had a good field, but went too small on it, said coach Ed Deigo. "Greg was in third at the three mile mark, but the ice, snow, and mud over there didn't do him any good."
