DeSilva wins recount; SGA election called invalid

By Bill Blundell
As this issue goes to press, the BSC Student Government Association is in the midst of its second week of campaigning. The students are trying to decide whether to vote for DeSilva or Darcy as their next president. DeSilva has won the first round of voting, but Darcy is still in the running. The outcome of the election is not yet known.

In a recent memo to the All-College Committee (ACC), President DeSilva recommended a slash in the withdrawal period for students. DeSilva's recommendation is based on the fact that there are too many students who withdraw from classes after the second week of school. DeSilva argues that this is not good for the students or the college. The ACC will review the recommendation and make a decision on whether to implement it.

Early last semester, Mrs. Elizabeth Graff, house mother of Scott Hall, filled out a mainteance report on the condition of the building. Although minor, the problems were broad range of areas. Scott Hall was built in 1960, is getting older and merely a matter of keeping up with the daily maintenance.

Lombardi commented that the major renovations were to begin on Scott Hall on May 22, with

Dance minor as a joint program from Speech Com-

This minor is also a natural accompatake a dance minor to

By Max Speed

I saw "Suburbia" for the third time this weekend, but still haven't seen it enough. "Suburbia" is one of the few films that seem so real, that you actually feel as if the characters are your best friends and you are the residence in a neighborhood bought for a highway extension, but these houses were intended to be demolished just about anything you can imagine. This film involves you for my show.

- The problem begins when " Victims, Family" By and was impressed the minute 1 Max Speed saw it-A great front Hardcore album comes out for my show.

This film leaves you so elated you have to find more of these films. But for now, let's talk about the film.

The plot begins when the morning begins with the "R.I.B." sound for totally original houses, and a pack of wild dogs. The movie then begins with the "Suburban" in Boston, a place that may be considered an urbanized house in a neighborhood called the Outskirts. Originally, these sounds were intended to be described as a highway extension, but now have become two houses to two groups. It's not often that a truly great hard-core album comes out of nowhere, but the recent release by the band, which happened to have been recorded in a garage, is a case in point. The album, which has been described as "hard-core with a touch of violence," is a surprisingly affecting piece of work.

The band, which consisted of two guitarists, a bassist, and a drummer, played a set that was a fusion of punk and hard-core. The sound was raw, but not harsh, and the lyrics were a mix of social commentary and personal statements.

The album, titled "Hardcore and a Touch of Violence," was recorded in a garage studio in the band's hometown. The band members, who were all in their late twenties, spent months rehearsing and writing the songs before finally entering the studio.

The album, which was released on a local label, has received critical acclaim and has been praised for its raw energy and emotional intensity. The band members, who are all from a tough neighborhood, are proud of the record and are looking forward to future releases.

AEROBICS: A Change For The Better

By Karen Melnnon

You are relaxing in the living room, watching your favorite soap opera or reading a book. Suddenly, your cell phone rings. It’s the doorbell. You rush to answer the door, only to find out that it’s just your neighbors. They were just passing by and didn’t realize you were home. This scenario is familiar to many of us.

So, how do you get some exercise without leaving your house or your favorite movie? One solution might be to try an at-home aerobics program. This can be a great way to get a good workout without having to leave your living room.

SHARE YOUR HOME

"SHARE" Student Exchange program needs homes for foreign students from some countries of the world for the 87-88 school year. Boys and girls in 11th and 12th grades, boarding, traveling, eating families, with their own way of life, and in return see the world through the eyes of a foreign visitor. "SHARE" is part of Educational Resource Development Training, designed by the United States Information Agency. A sponsor of a teen ages 16 to 19 year school exchange program. Qualified students live with host families around local high schools or in other homes in the same school area.

Students from Brazil, Mexico, Ecuador, Cameroon, France, India, Netherlands, and many other countries around the world have already been matched and willing to wait for placement. These students arrive in August (or January) and remain through the school year.

Parents may specify a boy or girl and they try to match the student with families who are interested in hosting such students.

DuSHELL wins rec?on?; SGA election called invalid

By Bill Blitstein

As the issue goes to press, the Student Government Administration (SGA) elections continue to cause a stir on campus. The SGA elections have been marred by numerous controversies, including allegations of vote counting irregularities and candidate violations of campaign rules.

The elections were held on April 15th and were supervised by the Department of Student Affairs. The results were released on April 17th, with the winners announced on April 18th.

DeSilva was elected president of the SGA, while Smith and Rodriguez were elected vice president and secretary, respectively. The winners were announced to a large crowd of students gathered in the Student Center.

In recent days, however, many students have been skeptical about the legitimacy of the results. Rumors have circulated that the election was rigged in favor of DeSilva, who is a close friend of the outgoing president, Smith.

Student反应s have been mixed, with some students expressing support for DeSilva and others calling for a recount. The SGA has refused to comment on the allegations, citing a lack of evidence.

In the meantime, the SGA continues to function as usual, with meetings scheduled to take place in the near future.

Indelico recommends slash in withdrawal period

Comment Poll shows students oppose move

By John J. Bonats

In a recent memo to the All‐College Committee (ACC), President Indelico recommended a reduction in the current withdrawal period from 10 weeks to 8 weeks. The memo states that the change would help reduce the number of students who drop out of college in their first year.

The ACC is currently reviewing the memo and is expected to make a decision on the matter in the near future. Students have shown strong opposition to the proposed change, with many indicating that they would be likely to remain enrolled if the withdrawal period were extended.
