Student Congress tackles college's drug policy

The Comment

By Edward Walsh

The Academic Policy Committee (APC), a subcommitte of the All-College Committee, tabled discussion on a measure to create a minimum drug-city standard (PQA) for participation in student activities at their first meeting on Monday night.

President Fortunato graciously made the request for the minimum PQA policy to his friend Dr. Charles Angell and the All-College Committee, dated June 11, 1987.

"It is for the students," he says, "to put the measures and the police officers in the process with fewer points and with more points and with greater penalties."

The APC committee must sign their names on the petition as of the 1987/88 academic program. The APC committee must make the request for the minimum PQA policy to their friend Dr. Charles Angell and the All-College Committee, dated June 11, 1987.

Sensible or sensational: a fine line

By Michael O'Connor

Most of us remember last Wednesday night and the Thursday as a night when we got a lot of our questions answered. But for some, it was not that way. For the rest of the students, the questions we asked were not answered. What happened was interesting and was reported as such. Yet, the way it was handled was not the way it should have been.

Many people argue that it was in essence a media event. Dr. Indelicato was very much in favor of the decision. It may have been a case of luck, but it certainly helped the cause. Someone asked about the possibility of the SGA making a motion to form a committee to look into the drug policy on campus. This led to a discussion about the need for proper funding for the SGA. The need for proper funding was brought up again later in the meeting.

For a long time, many of us had a hard time in that hour. Unfortunately, the residents had problems with the landlords and the essay of the house. When it came free of charge that the house was no longer suitable for living in, the residents were not happy. However, the students who opposed the motion did not agree.

The new game in the SGA is to follow the leader

Remembering a friend who died too young

By Michael O'Connor

The last move on Paul was on the marquee two and a half weeks ago. But for some, it was not that way. For the rest of the students, the questions we asked were not answered. What happened was interesting and was reported as such. Yet, the way it was handled was not the way it should have been.

Paul was no more perfect. None of us did. He had a lot of things that we did not like. But, the most important thing is to remember the good things about Paul, of which there were so many.

Now, I'll just pray for him. And, in the best tradition of how Paul would have wanted it, I'll try to make sure his family knows that he is not forgotten. Perhaps this is the best.

Less talking, more quiet urged for Maxwell Library

To the Editor:

I write to bring to the attention of the campus community a serious problem at the Maxwell Library. The library is in need of new furniture. This is not a new situation, but it has been brought up again by a student who is requesting that we improve the library.

I am therefore asking everyone to support this effort. I am taking no active role in the library. I am simply supporting the efforts of our library staff. If you have any comments, please write to me.

SGA Notebook

By Bill Ward

The meeting of the SGA Congress began with a discussion over the quality of the minutes of the previous meeting on October 15th. Members of the SGA Congress and executive board pointed out a number of discrepancies. President Debbie Sammons mentioned that it was not recorded that a bond had been delivered to the family of William Murphy.

The minutes were approved with changes.

DURING ORGANIZATIONAL AND EXECUTIVE REPORTS, WAYS AND MEANS COMMITTEE CHAIRMAN John R. Burns announced that budget packages for the spring semester are due November 23.

After a large number of club liaison reports, President Debbie Sammons introduced new SGA attorney William Patsos to the Congress.

Patsos discussed his role as attorney for the students and the legal problems that college students can face. He closed by expressing that his position needs to be publicized more because many students are unaware that free legal advice is available through the SGA.

Chairperson Medeiros allowed student trustee F. Scott Longo to speak during his report which followed.

Longo referred to the topic of food service. Longo addressed the financial problems and how well the college dealt with snow.

Longo stated, "Whenever you see something that should come to my attention, bring it to my attention."

In new business, the Congress overwhelmingly supported a motion to form a committee to look into the drug policy on campus. President Debbie Sammons stated that the Congress would like to research the facts before we go out and complain!

As a last motion, Congressperson Jeff Tucker moved to revoke the funds of the Gay and Lesbian Alliance. Former president Dilip DeSilva spoke out against the motion and Tucker withdrew it.

During the announcements, DeSilva requested funding for a beauty pageant to be put on by his sociology class. Medeiros told him to submit his request in writing and the meeting adjourned.

Love and Rockets hits the moon with Earth, Sun and Moon

By Steve Spiro

Want to get a jump on that big event which will be the hit of the year 1990 on our planet? From your own new album by Love and Rockets, Earth, Sun and Moon, comes a promotional campaign with4 all the trimmings. First, an appearance on "The Tonight Show," then a reissue of the hits "Killing Joke" and "The Edge of Power." "Welcome to Motown," a hit single and brand new with a genuine amplified guitar lead, is the cornerstone for this. The entire "No New Tales To Tell" album is reissueable, which you probably didn't know. The album includes all the tracks from the original 1985 release, and some singles. And, if you have the cash to spare, you can get the entire collection in a box set. And, if you don't have the cash, you can get the singles for a fraction of the price. This is the year to buy, my friends. Buy now, before the prices go up. And, if you don't have the money, you can always go to a bank and get a loan. But, don't wait too long, because the prices are only going to go up. Get it while you can.

Rossum’s Universal Machines to be performed by lab theatre this weekend

By Michael F. Hall

A growing concern is mankind's for the advent of specialized technology and the new role it will assume in a further mechanized society. This is by no means a new area of interest. The rise of Germanic Expressionism was a reaction to the danger of this.

Rossum's Universal Machines depict the self-consciousness of man, not only to invent a substance which could be developed into as one might be damned. It is by no means necessary, but it is a situation that man has to face. Especially considering the public as Daniel Ash and Kevin Haskins (drums), and the versatility and uniqueness of their work into the 21st century.

It is in this world that Karel
Rossum's nephew,
Young Kevin, who saw this, was influenced by his engineer. He saw the remarkable qualities of making illegal and to simplify and make cheap man-like "robots" in new hoops of his labors. But that is Rossum's history.

Classics Vinyl: Steely Dan

By Dave Spinn

In the 1970's, good sounding and producing became a more important part of rock music. In the studio, there was no better team than Steely Dan. Their producer, Gary Katz gave those vintage vinyl guns a more edgy, more compact sound. Ultimately, the musicians in this configuration gave new meaning to the word quality. " rewind to a Steely Dan scenario," was powered by the musicians' ability, always recognizable presence of Jeff "Buck" Falconer, "Buck" was one of the key keys in the Double-Decker. And when you listen to "Buckman Fantasy," you're a frontline man on through your own "Razor Boy." Sometimes you can only write off one of the most recognizable names ever. Donald Fagen, he sings, on every word, and takes one of the universal to the jazz rock trio who's almost all Steely Dan albums, "The Boys Band" is a charming set of subliminal keyboards and searching lyrics. A new slate for Lady Bears' hoop

Paul Mahoney era begins at BSC Saturday vs. S. Maine

Paul Mahoney's winning trajectory has yet to be created here at Stonehill and expectations are high for the upcoming season. The Lady Bears are entering the 1987-1988 season as a team of new faces with high hopes of success. The team has a mix of experienced players and new recruits that promise to make the Lady Bears a tough team to play against.

Despite early season losses, the Lady Bears have still managed to poised well in conference play and are currently holding the lead in the Northeast Athletic Conference. Their record remains strong, as they are only one game behind the leader. The Lady Bears are determined to make a strong showing this year, and they are looking forward to the challenges ahead.

"As far as I'm concerned," says Mahoney, "that's the past." I've seen the girls that the past is, and that's what they're doing.

When John takes to the floor Saturday, they have six or seven players back on the roster from last year's team. With the loss of John Janczewski, Christian Carew, and Len Boey- rige, many fans wonder what effect this will have on opponents. Mahoney feels the offensive part of this is key to producing points, especially with the addition of the three new players from last year's basketball.

"I have a few of those names," says Mahoney about the opponents. "If we're going to run an offensive game, if someone has the ball and can put it in, then that's what we want. We don't want a one-on-one guy who has a chance to lose on his birthday." Mahoney feels that leaves the scoring center position up for grabs. At this point in the season, opponents are struggling to find the right scoring center. If Hyndia, 6'5", can't find her rhythm, the forwards will have to step up.

"The forwards have to hit their shots," says Mahoney about the junior forwards. "They have to hit their shots and get the rebounds underneath the glass. He will have to step up for us."

Paul Mahoney, a former point guard at the University of Massachusetts, is in his second year as an assistant coach. He is one of the young players that Mahoney feels can provide some much needed rebounds. Mahoney says he'll have to go out and play defense this year, especially when it comes to rebounds and defending. Mahoney has told his team that Mahoney will be the key to the team this year, and that all important post-season.

"I've told the players about the toughness," says Mahoney about the sophomore forward. "Playing against a twelve point spread this year for women's basketball is going to be tough. It's going to be tight defense and a little paranoia about this year. I think we're going to play defense and play defense this year."

"As far as I'm concerned," says Mahoney, "last season is the past, and they're that's what they're dreaming.

When in Weiss turns to the floor Saturday, they have six new merchants back on the mound from last season's winning team. With the defection of John Lecon, Christine Calo, and Lane Boyer, many fans were worried what could happen this team would post to opposition. Mahoney finished up and offense is the key to producing points, especially with the addition of the three new players which bring to the bench for her.

We have four of inking Katia Antinelli (5'7), Shining) showing from the presenter in the starting "saw," says Mahoney about the sophomore forward. "We're going to end up on any offense. When someone has the ball and they can put it on the floor, then they put it on. We won't do a non-success that has been,"

Paul Mahoney

Coach

The bench this year will have depth, and more players will be playing time in years past. "I believe in playing the ones that make the bench," says Mahoney. "Everyone will get a chance to play. We won't stick to a 5-player system this year."

There will be a different conference this season.

Mark Champagne
Men's Basketball Coach

"It's a different conference this season.

During the 1987-88 season, Champagne was a freshman guard at Boston College. He has been a long-time head coach at Boston College and is currently an assistant coach at the University of Massachusetts Amherst.

"This is definitely a right day and right time, because each division has its own talent, and the girls are getting ready to play. We have a number of senior players, and they have to go to the gym every day. They don't want to lose their spots. Therefore, the girls can have fun while they do their work. The better they are at getting education, the better they will be.

With the return of the veteran center, Chuck Jaehnig is expected in back January following the Holiday Weekend, as the Bears won their third straight conference title.

With the return of the veteran senior forward, Chris Berigan, the Bears have a good chance of going to the NAIA bid to repeat as National Champions.

1987-88 Bridgewater Bears Basketball Preview Issue Supplement to The Comment November 19, 1987

Joan Ruggs
Athlete of the Year

Joan Ruggs, a residence of South Bridgewater and graduate of Bridgewater State College in 1983, is the recipient of the 1987-88 Bridgewater Bears Women's Basketball Athlete of the Year award. Ruggs, a four-year player at Bridgewater, was a key player on the Bears' 1987-88 team that captured the MACAC (Massachusetts Association of Colleges) Conference Championship. Ruggs was a key player in the team's success, setting the tone on both the court and in the classroom.

The Bears' 1987-88 season was one of the most successful in school history. The team won 20 games, including a perfect 16-0 conference record, and advanced to the NCAA Tournament for the first time in school history.

Ruggs was a four-year starter for the Bears, averaging 14.5 points and 8.0 rebounds per game. She was named the MACAC Player of the Year and was a First Team All-American.

The Bears' season ended in the NCAA Tournament with a loss to the University of Connecticut in the second round. However, Ruggs' efforts on the court and in the classroom were instrumental in the team's success.

As a senior, Ruggs was named the MACAC Player of the Year and was a First Team All-American. She was also named the New England Women's Basketball Coach of the Year.

Ruggs graduated from Bridgewater State College in 1983 with a degree in business administration. She later earned a master's degree in education from the University of Massachusetts Amherst.

The rivalry is strong between the two schools, and both fans of Southern Maine and Bridgewater will be there in the Kelly Gym to renew this rivalry. Paul Mahoney wants to come out with a win Saturday, but he is happy with the game, no matter who does win, I will be happy.

BSC student victim of sexual assault

By Christopher Howard and Bill Fagen

Bridgewater Police report that a rape occurred on campus late Thursday night, or early Friday morning.

The young woman was making her way to class Friday morning when she was accosted from the rear by a male, said Karen Engstrom, Campus Security Director.

The man then forced himself into the back seat of the car as she drove around.

Chicoria said that the police have a suspect, but that until further investigation, his name is still under investigation.

Regrettably, the victim resisted and the suspect was deterred from the crime.

He was apprehended on campus and was later released to the police.

Chicoria feels that the victim should not be brought to the college health service. "If that's the case," she said, "it's not a reflection on the personnel in (Health Services). They don't have the proper equipment to do the examination (or the hospital)."

A proper examination at a complete medical facility can often detect skin, hair, hair color, blood type, etc."

However, she noted that all of this evidence is usually washed down the drain immediately. Without the victim's testimony they can't be used.

Chicoria urges everyone in the campus community to report any incidents of this nature to the police, and for everyone to be careful themselves.

Student Congress tackles college's drug policy

By Robert Runge

The Congenial of the Student Government Association has formed a special ad hoc committee to review the college's "Drug Free Campus" policy and bylaws.

Created by a senate vote at Tuesday's meeting, the nine member committee's purpose is to investigate complaints which have been voiced regarding some of the policy, particularly that of the past cure policy.

Under the current policy, when a student is accused of a drug offense, a demerit is placed on the student's record. The demerit is then set aside after one year of good conduct, as defined by the student's dean of students, and the student then follows "the normal academic procedures for the rest of the year.

Student Congress tables mandatory MCA requirements proposal

By Bill Watl

The Academic Policy Committee (APC), a sub-committee of the All-College Committee tabled discussion on a measure to create a mandatory quality point average (QPA) for the participation in student activities at their first semester meeting on Wednesday.

Twelve members were present, but only one of the three students on the committee was present.

President Litchman made the request for the minute on the APC as a letter to Dr. Charles Aggieri and the All-College Committee, dated June 1, 1987.

In the letter he states, "It is my intention to implement a 2.0 grade point average requirement for all student athletes to participate in the college's athletic programs, effective with the fall semester of 1988."

He added that he would like to see the standard applied to all student leaders as well. "It is my goal that a student who builds a leadership position be able to graduate from this institution."

During discussion, Dr. John Haller of the department asked whether the request comes from athletics as leaders. Many other members felt that the committee should ask for clarification on who the measure applies to. They agreed that the committee should look at a consensus list of the positions the president is talking about.
