Volleyball team aces Babson in three games

By Paul Cournoyer

The Bridgewater State Women's Volleyball team moved their winning streak to seven games with a 3-0 victory over Babson College in a match played on Monday night. BSC also swept Bates College 3-0 and Amherst College 3-1 in their last two matches. With this victory, the BSC team is 7-0 in the Little Women's Hockey League.

The Bridgewater State Women's Volleyball team has put together a strong season so far, and they are currently ranked 15th in the nation. The team is led by head coach Jenifer Medeiros, who has been a driving force behind their success.

Babson, on the other hand, is struggling to keep up with the high standards set by the Bridgewater State team. They have lost all of their recent matches and are currently sitting at the bottom of the league standings.

The Bridgewater State team continued their winning streak by defeating Babson in three straight sets. The match was held at the Weis Center in Brockton, Massachusetts.

The Bridgewater State Women's Volleyball team has been a consistent performer throughout the season, and they are poised to make a strong showing in the upcoming tournaments. With their current form, they are a formidable team to watch out for.

Students pay more but Jenifer gets a raise

By Bryon Hayes

The Massachusetts Board of Higher Education approved an increase in the tuition fees at Bridgewater State University. The raise, which was held on Tuesday, October 12, was based on a recommendation from the Massachusetts Higher Education Chancellor

The vote, which was held on Tuesday, October 12, was unanimous by 13-0 decision. This pay raise moved Medeiros into second place as one of the highest paid employees in the system of higher education for Massachusetts. He now earns $112,000.

This is the second such pay raise that Jenifer has received. In 1987, the Regents gave Jenifer a pay raise that was "rewarded for a job well done." Later in 1987, the Board of Regents had made numerous accomplishments which they felt merited a pay raise.

The Regents decided to move this pay raise after viewing a survey which stated that it was the only campus which had no increase in prestige. This pay raise will go to $163,000.00 a year.

SMU rounds the Bears 22-9

By Angela Connolly

The SMU Mustangs scored 22 points in the first quarter to take down the Bears 22-9. The SMU team was led by quarterback Taylor Powell, who had a strong game and threw for over 200 yards.

The Mustangs also scored on the ground, with running back Josh Brown scoring a touchdown in the first quarter. The Bears were unable to keep up with the SMU offense and were forced to play catch-up the entire game.

Bridgewater State College is gearing up for Homecoming festivities, and in its organizer, Student Government Association Vice President Dave White, is optimistic about the weekend events.

"This year, there is lots of participation, this is a campus wide event," said White. The Homecoming activities begin Thursday, October 13 with a Barker Cruise, and culminate on Saturday, October 15 with the annual Homecoming football game and the Homecoming Dance.

The theme for this weekend is "brilliant for the gold," and this will be reflected in the parade, and the variety of floats that the students put time and effort into creating. This year, over 20 clubs and organizations are entered in the parade.

White also mentioned that there will be T-shirts, mugs, key chains, and ponchos on sale as "brilliant for the gold." "These items can be purchased outside the bookstore during the week, and at the football game on Saturday," White said.

There are, however, several shows变形 that are canceled for this year's Homecoming. According to White, and Timothy Millercik, Director of the Office of Student Services, the declining parties, which usually accompany the football game, are at an end this year.

"Alcohol will be pulled for this year, particularly in the parking lot next to the football," Millercik said.

White stated that there will "absolutely be no kegging allowed for the game." Millercik supported this statement and added that if students do drink over the Homecoming weekend, they "drink responsibly and behave responsibly."

One other change will also concern the parking lot. This year, students who wish to attend the games will have to wait until 11:00 A.M. before they will be admitted inside.

Millercik also announced that the parking lot will be closed and climate controlled after the games to ensure safety.

This, according to Millercik, is an attempt to curb the problems which resulted at last year's Homecoming events.

Last year, there was damage done by unauthorized students on various parts of the campus, and it was felt that heavily patrolling the area would do little to help students and visitors feel comfortable. This year the Homecoming Parade will be "fun-filled and safe for everyone."

Ignorance is not an acceptable excuse for apathetic behavior.

In the past, there have been events-dances, plays-scattered throughout the weeks. Dorms are full of those for whom there are more opportunities to attend than there are participants. Students constantly going home on the weekends is the key factor which directly contributes to this problem.

Many times, the phrase "If there were some activities on the weekends, we'd stay put" are quoted. But it's a catch-22 situation. Since there are no opportunities, students go home; but since all students go home, then activities are a waste of time.

The discouraging aspect is that the student accepts these processes. Students on campus who do not make an effort to change have no reason to complain. They make a decision, but choose to be in the shadow and badmouth the college and the way it is run. Not only do students complain when changes are not made, but it is when they are made.

The student never seems to be satisfied. If the students believe in the college, they must be concerned and involved.

If the students who attend the college had a voice in how problems are solved, or organization would be more apathetic?

It is true that the students of this college stopped being apathetic. When the time comes for decisions to be made and changes to be obtained, the organization finds that it has few members due to "lack of interest."

Former Basketball coach Paul Mahoney reports to editorial

To the Editor:

I would like to congratulate you on an excellent Editorial, "Women's Basketball" on September 28, 1988. It was an enjoyable, welcome change from the usual articles that I have decided to write in past years.

I was the Women's basketball Coach at Bridgewater State College from 1978 to 1988, and enjoyed my years there. I have been at numerous schools and conferences, and feel that BSU is a very special place.

One of these conferences was held in 1988, and was asked for a letter of resignation from the coach. Although the Administration did not want me to leave, the letter was written and the coach after me was installed.

In my case, the "letter of resignation" was not my decision, but the one that I had to do in my best interest.

I was told that BSU was not a basketball school, that I had a team that was not sponsored, and that the Administration did not want me to leave.

Also, the Administration did not want the team to be put on the winning.

I feel that the people involved, through members of the coaching profession, should have been more concerned about my professionalism, that I could care less about my professional reputation. It was not bad enough that I was never given a chance to coach, and that the board was held on campus.

I have been away from the college since October 6, 1988, and have not had the opportunity to return to see my former team, or to see the success that has been achieved in my former position.

I wish BSU and its Administration well. I have had the pleasure of being a part of the campus and the people that have made BSU a special place.

Sincerely,

Paul Mahoney

As an Open Letter to:

Coaches, Managers, Referees, Officials, Casual Bystanders, Editorial Board, Student Body, and all other individuals who have anything to do with the college's sports.

Hi, it's Pat Piles, and I'm writing to tell you something that has been on my mind for quite some time. It's about the return of Coach Mahoney to the college.

I know that many of you have mixed feelings about this, but I believe that it is the right decision for the college. Coach Mahoney has a wealth of experience and knowledge that will benefit the college.

It's true that he was not the best coach during his time here, but he was a great mentor and role model for many of the players. He taught them how to be competitive and how to win games.

I think that the college should give him another chance to prove himself, and I believe that he will do great things for the college.

Thank you for your time, and I look forward to seeing Coach Mahoney back on campus.

Sincerely,

Pat Piles

Autumn - the season of change. It is a time when the weather changes, the leaves turn colors; the leaves on the basketball court change, too, from yellows, reds, and oranges. This year, there are several factors which do not change with the new '88 season. One such factor is the apathetic attitude of the student body towards our college.

Such attitudes are not unique to this fall, nor are they the responsibility of the student body alone. Student bodies everywhere are experiencing similar situations.

Student clubs that were once representative are now no more than a reflection of the apathetic group that makes up the student body. Students trying to form clubs are shut down by others who feel it is their right to keep such clubs from being formed. No one wants to be involved in such matters, and it seems to be that everyone is satisfied with the situation as it is.

This fact alone, to say the least, is demoralizing. This is why Paul Mahoney was released. It was very easy to recruit new staff members to fill the coaching position. This is only one example of how few people care about the administration and how few people want to be involved.

The only coach whom we are aware of, who was released due to all these frustrating factors, was Mr. Paul Mahoney due to all these factors. Mahoney had a bad year in 1986-87. This time that he devoted to us individually, he spoke with us as ladies. When we told him what our academics were the first and foremost reason that we were interested in being a member of the basketball team, he went ahead and recruited other students who might have been interested.

Unfortunately, no matter how well the basketball program grows, plus the number of graduates students increases which is the chief goal for any Division III institution, Paul Mahoney was only at Bridgewater State Lady Bears basketball program back into its very prominent position in the Athletic Department itself. To whom it may concern:

I am writing this letter to say the truth as it is, about our basketball program. What you stated in your editorial, in my opinion, hit the nail on the head. What you stated in your editorial had a direct effect on me. I was thrilled when I read that I have decided to write in on our behalf and not just put it in writing. Paul Mahoney had a respectable 15-11 record and participated in the 1988 tournament.

So, you're a commuter and you say you've got problems, well, you're not alone. The majority of commuters at Bridgewater State College have the same problem. Whether it's finding a parking space after 5 p.m., or finding a current parking spot after hours you've been locked out. Everyone has had a problem or complaint about being a commuter.

One complaint that is shared by commuters and residents alike is that the long walk from the parking lot to the main campus, which is complicated by the uncovered footbridges. This is a problem that is quite disconcerting, especially on the cold mornings.

A significant problem facing commuters is the seemingly endless traffic from 11:00a.m.-3:00p.m. which makes leaving the campus of Bridgewater difficult. When asked what one of the main causes of traffic at this time, Campus Police Chief Ernest Graca responded, "Because so many people want to get on the road, there seems to be a need for the only way." Chief Graca notes that during this time, Campus Police are not doing anything against the students who use the buses. "If Mr. Perra was Parliamentarian of the campus, they should not have a vote on the expressway.""

It was pointed out to the students that the busy roads have been there and that they exist for the current parking situation as well. "The students should appreciate that there are enough reasons to give them a

Alien Nation fails to live up to "the hype" of the previews

Review

By Bryan Hayen

One of the latest science fiction thrillers to hit the big screen, "Alien Nation" is a movie that should have been a much bigger hit. The story follows a group of aliens who are sent by their leader, Ziptop, to Earth in order to create a new world. When they arrive, they are met with resistance from the human population, leading to a series of battles and conflicts.

The aliens are led by the charismatic Ziptop, played by Jeff Goldblum. His portrayal is a mix of charm and menace, making him a compelling character. The human population is led by Jack, played by Michael Peña. His portrayal is a mix of bravery and cowardice, making him a complex character.

The film's special effects are top-notch, with the aliens and their ships looking stunning on screen. The action scenes are intense and well-choreographed, making for a thrilling viewing experience.

However, the film's pacing is slow and its plot is confusing. The character development is lacking, and the film's message is not entirely clear. Overall, "Alien Nation" is a film that fails to live up to its hype.

A Shakespeare circus

By Paul Adworth

What do high wire acts, improv acts, roller skates, clowns, waltz, tennis, vertigo, and clown noses have in common? If you and the circus you were almost right. But in the Adelphia State College Laboratory Theatre, all this meets Shakespeare's Comedy of Errors, to be presented in early December. Dr. Suzanne Ramsey of the Speech Communication, Theatre Arts, and Communication Disorders departments claims that Shakespearean comedy, when properly performed, can be a lot of fun physicalizing Shakespeare. The performance is intended to entice students and members of the Laboratory Theatre community to explore Shakespearean comedy. The students will be attending the Theatre's matinees.

What do high wire acts, impromptu actions, roller skates, cyclers, tigers, terrors, gentlemen, and clowns have in common? If you add the circus you'll almost surely think of the Shakespeare's Comedy of Errors, to be presented in early December. Dr. Suzanne Ranyak of the Speech Communications, Theater Arts, and Communication Disorders departments directed this Shakespearean comedy, it will be performed and produced by the students of the Laboratory Theatre Production class.

"Theatrical" is a course that studies one certain style, genre, period of drama or scene, or way of acting for the entire semester. The course culminates in a production of a play for performance. Dr. Ranyak, who has directed Compass, The Three Penny Opera and Look Up Your Daughter, chose Shakespeare as the topic of study for the semester. Dr. Ranyak's goal was to explore methods of making Shakespeare accessible to modern audiences. "I wanted to look for a play which we could have a lot of fun physicalizing," said Dr. Ranyak, "and The Comedy of Errors seemed to be accessible and amenable to our approach. After analyzing and reading the play, we arrived at a circus format.

The Comedy of Errors, Shakespeare's darkest play, is often considered to be his first. The plot is based on Plautus. The plot is constructed on two sets of twins cause massive cases of mistaken identity. The audience often finds it fascinating because the twins are constantly mistaken for each other, and at times it seems impossible that nothing is going to be resolved. However, the funny, fast-paced heavy-hitting comedy is created.

In Ranyak's view the action of the Errors in a small family Communities Pancakes in the ease has learned to roll slides. Some have sharpened their weapons skills while others have learned to build a horse or hang from a trapeze. The cast are not only designing and building their own costumes, but are also designing their own individual clown makeup. They have invited a professional clown to help them "clown" their own clown faces and to discuss the clown of the American circus. As another part of their study they are using the Stratford Festival's Barron Bailey Circus. In case you wonder, the students got three credits for this class.

Some of their performances will be special high school matinees, other Shakespeare is studied in literature, but is taught most. These matinees will give many students a chance to see the Bard accessible to this kind of audience. The plays are free to the general public but students must purchase passes. The benefit also allows students to bring visiting professors and other members of the community to a performance. The plays are scheduled for December 15, 11 a.m. and December 17, 10 a.m. in the Campus Center Auditorium.

Come and see The Comedy of Errors on Earth Dying the Bard.

War of the Worlds debuts on television

Are you a science fiction buff? Did you grow up watching "The New, "Buck Rogers," and "V"? Remember those days when your mother asked you to go out and play and you responded, "Sure, I'll go out, after Godzilla destroys Monster X."

In the past decade, imaginative minds have produced a variety of compelling television series. Last Saturday night another science fiction series debuted. The new series is called "War of the Worlds." The pilot does not show much promise for the true science fiction fan.

Based on the original movie of the World, the series begins with the U.S. Marine putting down terrorists. They discover, with the assistance of a ragged band of scientists and a small military force, that these "terrorists" are actually aliens.

These aliens intend on invading Earth for unknown reasons. They are on their way to Earth to capture their ships in an abandoned air force hanger. The scientists find the alien's plan and destroy the space ships, ending the show's two hour premiere episode.

The aliens are hulking beings and use their bodies, as in the case of the Body Snatchers. In another scene, an alien's arm comes out from a human host reminding us of the movie Alien and Aliens.

It is hard to sit down and watch something that has already been seen. The weekly series may improve, however. From its premiere this past Saturday night, however, it does not look like much can be expected from this science fiction fan.

The aliens use humans as hosts and steal their bodies, as in Invasion of the Body Snatches. In another scene, an alien's arm comes out from a human host reminding us also of the movies Alien and Aliens.

It is hard to sit down and watch something that has already been seen. Based on the original movie The weekly series may improve, of War of the Worlds, however. For a science fiction fanatic, there is nothing in this series too frightening. Don't settle with the show, or the series, or the movie or the book or the comic strip or the novel.

National Security Agency is Offering in October

The National Security Agency (NSA) is the government's principal intelligence gathering agency and is located in Maryland. There are many types of positions available including Computer Systems, Language, Mathematics, Physics, Chemistry, Intelligence Research, Cryptography, Signals Analysis and Management and Administration. All applicants must have a minimum GPA of 3.0/4.0 and must complete an aptitude test called the QT (Professional Qualification Test). The test will be offered October 20, 1988, and the application deadline is October 14, 1988. A complete listing and registration form is available in the Career Planning and Placement Office.

Christa McAuliffe Teacher Incentive Grant Program

The Department of Agriculture, Food and Environment, and National Endowment for the Arts have established a Teacher Incentive Grant Program. This program is an effort to provide grants for up to $1,000 in student scholarships to selected arts programs in New Hampshire. Students who are interested in applying for this grant must be either junior or senior year, and enrolled in a full-time program. Students receiving the grant must be eligible for student certification. Students must also demonstrate financial need as defined by the Financial Aid Office.

Financial Grant Search Service

A recent congressional study estimates that over $6.6 billion in student scholarships and loans went unused each year. This is because students and schools didn't know where to find these sources of financial assistance. Financial Grant Search is a program that matches financial awards and scholarship matching services to interested students.

Financial Grant Search provides a computerized research program which matches students with financial awards and scholarships based on the information submitted by the student. Once these matches are made, the student is supplied with the name and address of whom to contact, the amount of financial assistance awarded, and what kinds of financial assistance the student is eligible for.

1989 Younger Scholars Awards
The National Endowment for the Humanities invites applications for Younger Scholars Awards. These awards support individuals who wish to conduct research and writing projects in the humanities during the summer of 1989. Younger Scholars Awards are intended to enable researchers to work full-time for one or two weeks during the summer, doing research and writing a paper under the close supervision of a humanities scholar. No academic credit may be sought for these projects. College Younger Scholars Awards are made to undergraduates below the level of master. Awards are $2,000 for college students. Any college student below the level of master may apply. Applicants must be U.S. citizens or foreign nationals who have lived in the U.S. for at least three consecutive years at the time of application.
In an act that established the National Endowment for the Humanities, the term Amassians includes, but is not limited to, the study of the following disciplines: history, philosophy; languages; linguistics; literature; archaeology; jurisprudence; the history, theory, and criticism of the arts; ethics; comparative religions; and those aspects of the social sciences that employ historical or philosophical approaches.

The Bridgewater State College football team emerged victorious Saturday afternoon in their home stadium. The Bears defeated Nichols College, 23-0, behind a 10-yard touchdown pass from Vinny Clanin to Philpott 14. The Bears put up a strong defense all afternoon, limiting the Nichols offense to just one touchdown.

The Bears' defense was led by senior linebacker Nick Clark, who had 13 tackles, and junior safety Chris Sullivan, who had 12 tackles. The Bears also had three interceptions, including one by senior cornerback Kevin Pino, who returned it for a touchdown.

Offensively, the Bears were led by senior quarterback Vinny Clanin, who completed 14 of 21 passes for 179 yards and one touchdown. Clanin also rushed for 35 yards and a touchdown. Junior running back Chris Sullivan had 13 carries for 66 yards and a touchdown.

The Bears improved to 5-0 on the season and are now 4-0 in MASCAC play. They will look to continue their winning streak as they prepare to face UMass Dartmouth next weekend.
