Bridgewater State College wins the Cranberry Bowl

By Paul Carney

The Cranberry Bowl is the annual football game between the Bridgewater State College Bears and the Massachusetts Maritime Academy Islanders. It is held at the end of the fall semester and is one of the most highly anticipated events of the year for both institutions.

This year's game took place on November 2, 1988, at the Bridgewater State College stadium. The Bears were looking to secure their sixth straight win over the Islanders, while the Islanders were hoping to end their losing streak.

The Bears, led by quarterback John O'Neill, had an outstanding performance, throwing for over 300 yards and three touchdowns. The Islanders, on the other hand, struggled to keep up with the Bears' offense, falling behind early and failing to make a comeback.

The final score was 35-7 in favor of the Bears, securing their sixth straight win and cementing their status as the dominant team in the Cranberry Bowl.

The Bears' victory also marked the end of the regular season for both teams, setting the stage for the upcoming playoffs and the potential for a shot at the national championship.

Students pay for College Presidents' raises

By Bryan Hayes

While state funding to the Commonwealth's institutions of higher education has been limited, Massachusetts presidents have received raises in recent years. These raises reflect a lack of adequate funding for higher education, and the presidents' compensation has become subject to scrutiny.

In the Commonwealth, 19 of the 27 presidents of Massachusetts' state institutions of higher education have been eligible for a pay raise. Said spokesperson for the Board of Regents, Terry Zoulas, "The presidents would be in effect working for nothing, since they have been granted increases.

Six college presidents already have received bonuses. These raises reflect a lack of adequate funding for higher education. The raises come as a time when the budget request to the Board of Regents for College Presidents' raises would be in effect before the end of this year.

As a result, numerous state colleges and universities have had to make cuts, lowering faculty, wages on programs, and the cutting of one time "emergency" funds in effect to alleviate funding this year.

The pay raise recommendations were based on an evaluation completed by the college's local advisory board of trustees. Their proposals were subject to approval or disapproval by the Board of Regents. The president would vote on the recommendation, which would then be forwarded to the Board of Regents for final approval.

Several presidents have been criticized for the raises, as they are seen as unreasonable and unnecessary. Some have suggested that the raises are unjustified and that the money could be better spent on other areas of the institution.

However, others argue that the raises are necessary to retain top talent and keep up with compensation in other sectors.

The future of the presidents' raises remains uncertain, as the Board of Regents continues to review the recommendations and make a decision on their approval.

Cranberry Bowl Action

The game is known for its high-scoring affairs, with both teams putting on a show for the fans. The last time the Bears won was in 2010 when they defeated the Islanders 35-7. This year's game was no different, with the Bears coming out on top once again.

The Bears' quarterback, John O'Neill, had a stellar performance, throwing for over 300 yards and three touchdowns. The Islanders' quarterback, Matt Cullen, had a solid performance as well, throwing for over 200 yards and a touchdown.

The game was filled with excitement and energy, with both teams fighting hard to secure the victory. The Bears' defense was strong, limiting the Islanders to just 7 points.

The Bears' fans were vocal, cheering loudly and creating a lively atmosphere at the stadium. The game was played in front of a packed house, with fans from both teams showing up to support their favorite team.

In the end, the Bears emerged victorious, with a final score of 35-7. The game was a great display of athleticism and teamwork, with both teams putting on a show for the fans.

The Bears' victory was sweet, as they secured their sixth straight win over the Islanders. The Islanders' loss was disappointing, as they were hoping to end their losing streak.

The game was a great display of athleticism and teamwork, with both teams putting on a show for the fans. The Bears were the clear winners, with a final score of 35-7.

Healey lectures students about justice

The United States is ignorant to world problems

By Sherri Cipriani
Contributor

Last Thursday night, in the Honors Theater, Jack Healey, the Executive Director of Amnesty International, told Bridgewater State College students about the injustices that plague our world. Where does the responsibility lie in stopping these issues? Who is going to care about these lives?" he asked. Healey's answer, "we as the generation of the world but the human family. The world needs to love all the suffering behind this."

The issues of political homogenies and torture in Latin America such as South Africa, Ireland, the Middle East, Estonia, Central America and many others were covered. Healey spoke of his personal experience with the victims of these affiliated wars. "There are people so different than you and I," said Healey. The United States is ignorant to the problems that the people of the world face. Due to the mismanagement of America's foreign policy, developing nations are suffering. The United States is ignoring human rights and issues. Healey stated, "We should do everything possible to stop the killings and the torture. This was the general feeling throughout the audience."

The countries most responsible for the injustices that plague the world are the wealthier people, who are not yet alone. There is no one, it is the East and West fighting to gain power. Healey stated, "We need to stop these wars and we need to educate the world on this issue."

After the lecture, Healey opened the floor to a question-answer period. He answered the questions to the best of his ability and gave his personal insight. A candlelight vigil followed on the steps of Blender Hall to protest that unjust imprisonment, torture and executions must be stopped.

people needed to work together in a conducive fashion rather than one characterized by fighting with each other. Tinsley explained that this is a concern with a very constructive history.

Tinsley is currently the Executive Vice President and Provost at Chapman State College in New Jersey. A school very much like Bridgewater, he explained, with a strong teaching focus. Tinsley explained the steps taken toward becoming a multi-purpose university.

She spoke highly of Bridgewater State College, "Bridgewater is a fine new college," said Tinsley. "I'm here to see what the potential is in the school."

He explained that Bridgewater was one of the finest institutions in the nation. He endorsed his visit very positively with the students.

Correction:

In the October 26 issue of the Comment, in the Sports section, there were two names left out of the BABES Wanderer, for the top ten women finishers. Joannit Anderson placed second, and Heather Dmoch came in third.

The assistant coach of the Cross Country team had his name printed wrong. His correct name is Bill Robeson. The Occam. We apologize for the errors.

Registration for Spring Courses

Registration for day school courses for the 1989 semester will begin on Monday, November 7, and continue through Friday, November 18. Appointments should be made with the student's advisor in their major department, to ensure their registering before deadlines.

The advisors will assist students in planning and meeting the requirements of their major and minor, and in completing the registration forms correctly.

Students who are unsure of who their advisors are should check the lists posted outside the Registrar's Office and in the Academic Advising Center, located in the Davis Library.

Students who choose not to register during this official period will be permitted to register between Monday, November 28 to Friday, December 2.

There will be, however, a late fee of $25.00 for those students who register during this second period. Also, the "late out" and "academic" policies will be in effect for those students who register after December 2.

New Courses to Be Offered

The Department of Philosophy and Religious Studies has announced that they will be offering six new courses and one new elective for the 1989 Spring semester.

The elective, entitled Afro-American Religion, will be taught by Faree Quailey, will be held Monday, Wednesday, Sunday (MWF) at 12:00. The elective will focus on the black religious experience in America as a continuation and expression of black African religion, and as a liberation movement by a colonized or third-world people.

This course satisfies the GBR in Non-Western Studies.

The new courses are the New Testament, taught by Mitchell Boyce and meets on MW at 10:00. This course explores the historical, theological, and literary ideas of the work.

David Cheney will be teaching Theories of Happiness. This examines the major views of happiness, what is it, and how to get it. The class will meet at 12:15 on Tuesdays and Thursdays (TTh).

Great Philosophers II, a course which will examine the lives and ideas of Descartes, Hume, and Kant, will be offered on MWF at 10:00. Steven Sanders will be the professor.

Sanders will also lead Philosophy of Law, which will discuss ethical issues in the practice of law. This will be held MWF at 11:00.

Symbolic Logic will be offered on TX at 10:55, and its professor will be Ed James. This will study ways of making and evaluating good arguments.

James will also teach Ethical Theory. This will evaluate major ethical perspectives and consider ethical pluralism. It will be held TX at 10:55.

Marcos Arraigned on Charges

Imelda Marcos, the wife of the former President of the Philippines Ferdinand Marcos, pleaded innocent to terrorism charges which involved fraud and embezzlement. Her bail has been set at $5 million. She is accused of using $200 million from her national government's payroll, and taking home bank deposits totaling $200 million. She is said to have embezzled, with her husband's knowledge, insurance, and workers' compensation.

The Office of Personnel offers a broad range of services to all students of the college, including student employees. Some of the services offered include: the recording of attendance for all students, payroll, and taking care of benefits which include: group insurance, and workers' compensation.

This office also maintains all personnel files, takes care of labor contracts, and in its charge of recruiting and hiring employees.

College Security Problems Addressed by Campus Police

By David Flannery

Comment Staff

Campus Police Chief Fortunato Graca feels that the issue of safety is one that must be discussed, since he believes that his department is understaffed and underfunded. He also feels that students need to be involved more in talking about their own safety. The issue of student harm on campus arises out of the fact that there are several incidents of crime that are of a very serious nature.

Graca says that the college is also concerned about the increase in incidents such as car thefts and break-ins. He suggests that instead of having student drivers a van equipped with a police radio to pick up students if they need an emergency. Graca also feels that students need to be involved more in the idea of shuttle buses running on campus.

The second question asked: To inquire about our Guaranteed Aviation Program as well as our Ground, Law and Women's Officer Commissioning Programs, see Capt Mike Dunford in front of the Bookstore on Tuesday and Wednesday, 8-11 am.

In working to improve safety on campus, Graca is presently trying to communicate more with the Board of Trustees over funding for the department and other suggestions as well. He feels that the idea of shuttle buses running on the weekends is a good one. He is also presently pursuing the current officers by having them go through a certified police academy, and by having one officer involved in a case investigation unit. Graca hopes that this will upstage his department.

Other plans being written on include having the shuttle buses run on weekends. The plan is being worked on by the Student Government Association. The plan suggests that instead of having four police, he would prefer having a student driving a van equipped with a police radio to pick up students if they need an emergency.

Graca says that it is his duty as Chief to enforce the rules of the college and the laws of the State.

Viewpoint

Exercising your right

Every four years, on the second Tuesday in November, America votes to elect a President. Every two years, America elects their representatives to Congress. Who cares? Everyone should. It is more important this year to vote, since "everybody" will be deciding who will run the White House for the next four years. That "everybody" means only those who vote.

Students are among the age group who tend to vote the least. They have been called irresponsible and should boycott voting in order for not taking an active role in the governmental system. They deserve this description. And it is up to this generation to realize the capability to think about an event which does not directly effect them. The "Me" generation cares only about one person: themselves. Voting for a candidate or issue is the capability to think about an event which does not have a direct affect on them. It is one of the capabilities which make a difference, are wrong. It is the people who have this capability who make a difference. Those people, who tend to vote.

It is the people who have this style of thinking which give the others a bad reputation. If freshmen students had any capability at all to think beyond their own little world, they would realize the importance their vote could have. If that is the case, then why do so few students vote? It can be directly related to the importance of voting.

The capability to think about an event which does not have a direct affect on them. It is one of the capabilities which make a difference, are wrong. It is the people who have this capability who make a difference. Those people, who tend to vote.

Did anyone lose a red-wire notebook?

To the Editor:

This is a mystery of sorts. I take note every class because, one is the library and the other is a Drawing Hall. November 2, 1988, while in my Drawing class. I took a look and found something that didn’t belong to me.

It’s a red-wire notebook. I have no idea who has it or where it got to, then because it seems to have been lost st the wrong place. I never thought I could live without a cat. The notebook contained some work, friends and classmates.

I’m sure I’ll be back class this week. A notebook containing some work, because it seems to have been lost st the wrong place.

Let’s discover. As I’ve said, it’s red.

1 Increased salaries for certain state officials

Do you approve of a law, passed simultaneously with the state's fiscal year beginning on July 1, 1988, which increased the salaries of the governor, lieutenant governor, attorney general, state treasurer, state auditor, and the commissioners of the Department of Environmental Resources, the Department of Health and Human Services, the Department of Revenue, and the Department of Administration?

The law specifies new salaries effective July 1, 1988, for the governor at $150,000, the lieutenant governor at $125,000, the attorney general at $110,000, the state treasurer at $100,000, the state auditor at $95,000, and the commissioners of the specified departments at the new salaries.

2 Repealing the prevailing wage law

Do you approve of a law, passed simultaneously with the state's fiscal year beginning on July 1, 1988, which repealed the state's prevailing wage law?

The prevailing wage law required the payment of a minimum wage for all laborers employed in public works contracts. The law was repealed to allow private employers to set their own wage rates.

3 Regulating treatment of farm animals

Do you approve of a law, passed simultaneously with the state's fiscal year beginning on July 1, 1988, which regulates the treatment of farm animals?

The law requires the establishment of the Commission on Animal Scientific Advisory Board, which will have the authority to issue regulations concerning treatment of farm animals and to issue exemption permits for the slaughter of farm animals.

4 Stopping electric power plants that produce nuclear waste

Do you approve of a law, passed simultaneously with the state's fiscal year beginning on July 1, 1988, which stops the construction of new electric power plants that produce nuclear waste?

The law prohibits the construction of new electric power plants that produce nuclear waste.

Songs special to the area

Chicago's latest LP makes a slight change to a more gentle pace, which is welcome after the somewhat full-tilt approach that Bob Dylan, (who played guitar on this album) and the Rolling Stones have taken in recent years. The difference is less in the guitar playing than in the vocals and harmonics.

The band consists of five vocalists and three instrumentalists. The group music is soothing, with harmonics and instrument parts that blend in gently. The albums title, "New Sounds", reflects the music. The music is simple, but well arranged and well executed.

The band is on a roll, and the album is pleasing to listen. The songs are well written and performed. The band's music is a welcome change from the hard driving rock of recent years.
1 Increased salaries for certain state officials

Do you approve of a law, introduced before, which was approved by the House of Representatives on May 20, 1987, by a vote of 52-35, and passed by the Senate on May 30, 1987, by a vote of 31-15?

The law provides a salary increase, retroactive January 1, 1987, for the members of the legislature and certain constitutional officers of the Commonwealth.

Beginning in a base salary of $30,000, each member of the legislature will receive a salary increase under the law, equal to the compounded percentage increase in the salaries of full-time state employees who are subject to collective bargaining agreements between the Commonwealth and the American Federation of State, County, and Municipal Employees (AFSCME-SEIU), AFL-CIO in effect between June 1, 1986, and January 1, 1987. Therefore, the salaries of each member of the legislature will be increased by the same percentage as the salaries of full-time state employees subject to collective bargaining agreements.

The law further provides that members of the legislature holding leadership positions and committee chairmanships will receive an extra rise in their salaries. This additional increase will vary from 1% to 10% depending upon the position the member holds. The law also increases the salaries of certain constitutional officers. Under the law, the salary of the governor is set at $155,000; the salary of the lieutenant governor, state secretary, state treasurer, and the state auditor are set at $70,000; and the salary of the attorney general is set at $75,000.

Any individual may devise a law extending the provision of the law to certain other state officials.

2 Repealing the prevailing wage law

Do you approve of a law, introduced before, which was approved by the House of Representatives on May 3, 1988, by a vote of 113-19, and on May 4, 1988, by a vote of 9-34?

The proposed law would amend state law requiring that the wages, including all payments, paid to persons performing work for employers in the Commonwealth be at least the prevailing wage as determined by the appropriate state agency.

3 Regulating treatment of farm animals

Do you approve of a law, introduced before, which was approved by the House of Representatives on March 2, 1988, by a vote of 5-15, and on May 3, 1988, by a vote of 3-14?

The proposed law will require the Director of the Department of Agriculture to issue regulations to ensure that farm animals are not mistreated in good health and that cruel or inhumane practices are not used in housing, handling, or transportation of animals.

The proposed law would set maximum weights for the proposed laws, and the treatment of farm animals, the transportation of farm animals, and the uses of specified agricultural machinery.

4 Stopping electric power plants that produce nuclear waste

Do you approve of a law, introduced before, which was approved by the Senate Committee on the Senate, the House Committee on the Senate, the House Committee on the Senate, and the House Committee on the Senate, May 3, 1988, by a vote of 30-19, and on May 4, 1988, by a vote of 13-10?

The proposed law would provide that electric power plants be stopped if certain conditions are met.

Sonic Youth stimulating as a bad dream

An attention getting performance, but lacks a flowing rhythm

By Lee Stanford

The best way to describe the recent concert of the Sonic Youth performance October 27 at the Somerville Theatre is to picture the soundtrack to the worst nightmare imaginable. Their group plays what some would call basic rock and roll, others would call Hell. The set lasted about an hour, but that hour will not be forgotten. Sonic Youth took the audience on a tour of their own senses and unconscious, bringing their back catalog and live shows back to the conventional format, if it is taken a while for the audience to adjust to this new stimuli. Both guitarists played with great intensity and originality. Moore is going so far as to redefine a dream between his strumming hands and house on his feet. Sonic Youth's conventional boundaries of the genre are forever dispelled. The concert is a new self-instilled self imposed music to succeed in the 1980s.

If anyone is interested in breaking away from the limitations who follow such a popular music, pick up any of Sonic Youth's albums which include the classics, "Evil and Erotic," and their most recent "Daydream Nation," all on the SST record label.

Longhorns, and James Pardue, is also all over this record. It's a Chicago malarky and without it the band loses some of its identity, but then it is a case for even a little bit of therapy on Chicago 27.

It happens on the bass and most thrilling track on this is a track called "Vivacious." This song was written by and contains writer Mark Jordan and featuring original member Ron Tower on lead vocals. This tune will grace any listener with the flood. Rock overman. It's "We are the World." It's music, and its head jerking back.

This album is truly a surprise for those who have come to appreciate their works from the old days 'more than than the post-post-Cutmen material. However, Chicago 27 makes a solid case for the new band.

Glen Frey was born in Detroit. He is an avid fan of Momma and old school rock from the 60's. As a fronting member of the Eagles, his strength was always based on the ever changing style of the band that eventually defined West Coast rock. Even on the Eagles "Heart Afire," Frey was frankly trying to inject some of his hometown rhythm and blues into his bandmates' style. Unfortunately, the Eagles disbanded in early 1981 for an album.

Frey's solo career has progressively gotten closer to his roots. On "3 a.m. (Lurking," Frey has gone all the way. The opening track "Little Right" is an ode to fitness. Frey proclaims that one has to give something up to get something back. America is growing more and more in freewheeling companies that give this tune a workout. But Frey seems more than home with tender ballads like the finger snapping "Some Kind of Blue," "True Love," and "Song Something.

As to Frey could be in his best physical condition he has ever been in the pages of Rolling Stone modeling old school attire. He is definitely looking different. His strength has not been always had. Frey has turned Bishop into a "crooner" as opposed to a "belter." Do not get Frey wrong, he can still holler as he does in "Working Man." Frey does not sound like he does in "Hawking Blue." Frey's commitment to rhythm and blues has taken him to a whole new audience. His appeal will be strong even with women 23 and older. But his music is as soon as a has been in his 40 years. Frey is "Living Right."

The best way to describe the sound assault of the Sonic Youth performance October 27 at the Bonneville theater is to picture the soundtrack to the worst nightmare imaginable, combined with the sound of thousands of electric guitars all being smashed at the same time. Sonic Youth has existed as a band since 1981. It consists of guitarist Thurston Moore and Lee Ranaldo, bassist Kim Gordon, and drummer Steve Shelley. All four are respected members of New York City's art rock scene. They are known for their brilliant guitar work and their ability to create a unique and innovative sound. Sonic Youth proved to be capable of playing some great rock and roll. They were able to create a sound that was very unique and very powerful.

The Children's Physical Developmental

The children in the Clinic program respond to the outgoing and friendly manner of the many BSC clinicians, like Bob Arsenault.

Since the Spring of 1974, the Health, Physical Education and Recreation Department of Bridgewater State College has supported a program which fosters community service. The program affords students from all majors on campus the opportunity to volunteer their time working with children and youth with special needs in clinical physical and motor programs on Saturday mornings.

What started 15 years ago as a pilot project to serve children with special needs in one of the 37 communities in the greater Boston, South Shore and Rhode Island areas, now serves some eighty children and youth from 37 communities in the greater Boston, South Shore and Rhode Island areas.

The Clinic has proven to be a satisfying experience for students who seek to help children with special needs to reach their fullest potential: physically, intellectually, emotionally and socially.

The Clinic utilizes the Olympic-size swimming pool, three gyms, an early childhood intervention center, a physical fitness training room and outdoor facilities. The developmental program is one of only about 60 in the country.

The program seeks to improve the "total development" of children with special needs. Each child in the Clinic program is assigned a clinician who, through observation and assessment, is responsible for determining the needs of the child.

To achieve the goals of each child's individual program, experiences vary, but may include:
- Early Intervention
- Physical Fitness
- Perceptual Motor Development
- Individual and Group Games
- Aquatic Skills
- Rhythmic and Dance Skills
- Remedial Speech Activities

The Clinic has been recognized by the University of Maryland (through extensive use of the Clinic) and the University of Rhode Island. Professor Johanne Smith, the Clinic staff has received the Manuel Carballo Governor's Award for Excellence in Public Service - the Commonwealth's highest citation for public service.

The Clinic is now accepting applications for the Winter/Spring semester from all students interested in applying. Applications may be obtained in the HUB office, Room 103 in the Kelly Gymnasium, and must be returned by December 16, 1988.

Women's cross-country wraps up their season

The Bridgewater State College Women's Cross Country Team has recently completed its season with a good showing. They have been preparing for the upcoming events of their season. On Saturday, they competed in their first meet of the season at a race held in Massachusetts. The meet was won by the BSC women, with the next closest team being national champion of the 2008 NCAA Division III Cross Country Championship, the University of Vermont. The Bridgewater team finished second, just one point behind the winner.

The team has been working hard all season to prepare for the upcoming meets. They have been training every day, both on and off the course. The coaches have been working closely with the athletes to ensure that they are prepared for the upcoming season.

The Bridgewater State College Women's Cross Country Team has been successful this season. They have won several meets and have been top ten in many meets. They are looking forward to the upcoming meets and hope to continue their success.

Students pay for College Presidents' raises

By Brya Hayes

While state funding to the institutions of higher education have been cut in the past year, the state college presidents are making record-high raises.

In the Commonwealth, 19 of the 23 state college presidents are eligible for a pay raise. Said spokesman for the Board of Regents, Terry Zooka, "The raises would be in effect before October 29.

Six college presidents already have their raises increased. These raises reflect a hike of 7.5 percent and 17 percent of their current pay standard. This upper salary level was initially $60,000.

The Student Association of Massachusetts executive director, Joseph Langla, said that "the increases were really uncalled for at this time."

The problems which caused the largest increases were Williams O'Connell from Massachusetts College of Art, and Daniel F. Conlon, superintendent at Springfield.

The raises came at a time when the budget request for the higher education systems was cut by $5 million, due to declining state revenue.

Three weeks prior to this decision, the Chancellor of Higher Education Franklin Reardon approved a 12 percent pay increase from the Board of Regents for $10,000. This decision was accompanied with a reduction cut in the Board of Regents. "Fiddling with the numbers is not enough as any team's finances are based on a permanent basis."

This statement is to say that college financials is the "ideal," but in many cases it is even more difficult when times are tough.

Satirist Dick Gregory brings humor to BSC

By Angela Consolinski

Dick Gregory, satirist, spoke before a weekend audience at Rivers State College. He is a comedian who has appeared on many television shows.

With the help of the students he was able to make the audience laugh. "It was worth it."

He said, "I give my explanation by saying that my plane was delayed in Philadelphia. I hit those combo airways, "the white means of transportation."

"We black folks have to travel. GunPowder never let us return."

An airport may have a plane crashed, but they don't tell the people that. On last bag, he said one can still smell the sweat of Grouspayh how many bags they lost and then they give the passenger someone else's bag.

Gregory made some comments on the presidential elections. He asked if people heard about Dakuklo asking Bush for another debate on decenie eve. "Bush isn't even debatable."

He suggested that Dakuklo should have phoned Jean Jackson for his partner. "Not because he is black or because he came in second, please the Michael Jackson ticket."

Gregory next commented on Nelson Mandela. "King has everyone scared about his death of the 34th. I know no way we can remove our love on the honey I'm glad we bought two bananas."

He then spoke about drugs. He was asked by the idea of five service-seeker-agents agents. "Here's Mrs. Reagan speaking. anything we do and we forget to tell the guys."

Gregory then said, "You can make a difference as a different student. If you want to change this educational system, it keeps you up all night studying, you smoke a quarter, do it."

However, many of you are too scared to speak up. "You can make a difference once you understand who you are and what you are about."

Second candidate visits campus

Tinsley impressed with Bridgewater's campus

"If there's one point you remember about my visit, I'm the one from the institution very similar to Bridgewater," said Dr. Adrian Tinsley during his visit to Bridgewater State College Thursday, October 7th.

Tinsley was the second of the three presidential candidates, chosen by the presidential search committee, to visit the campus. These visits are allowed to allow both the candidates and members of the college community a chance to form an impression of the person before any final decision is made. Dr. Russell Warren visited Bridgewater last week and the last candidate, Dr. Richard Blais will visit from November 2 to 4.

Tinsley, a native of New York, has a degree in Psychology from Bryn Mawr and degrees in English Literature from the University of Washington and Cornell University. He has held various administrative positions at institutions of Higher Education in Michigan, Minnesota, and New Jersey. A general election was held October 27th at 3:30 p.m. in the Heritage Room of the Main Library, to allow freshly-graduated and students to vote. Tinsley, a short informal session, in which she was able to meet more about and talk to those at the reception, the individual level, Tinsley made a short speech through which she tried to provide more information about herself and discuss important issues.

She explained that she is going to teach about Bridgewater State College as she can be seen making a decision. On one occasion, the reader, "This is a campus with a history of academic excellence!" indicated that she would enjoy working as an institution which can be open.

The ownership decided to release Tony Franklin saying he was inconsistent, the obvious reason was his high salary. Franklin was one of the many players who has won the Patriots games.

During the pre-season this year, the Patriots management made a decision that has definitely cost them one game. "The best example of this lately."

During the superbowl he took in the superbowl and gives Garcia the kickers' position. Franklin was one of the experienced coach should know that is not enough as any team's finances are based on a permanent basis.

The players on the team's finances but their own performance. Admittedly the cost of this poor decision has definitely cost them one game. "The best example of this lately."
