Women's swim team continues success

By Joyce Yankowsky

The last two weeks were busy for the swim and waterpolo teams, as both went down their dual-meet seasons. The men visited Holy Cross on February 1, where they were defeated 91-64, both teams entered into UMass on the following Saturday, where they were defeated 133-75, while the women prevailed 135 to 58. Last Thursday, both teams competed at Worcester Polytech, and the women won 147-74, while the men defeated Wesleyan 191-84.

SGA appoints Mullen as legal counsel to fight fee

come from p. 1 would happen if the judge did not grant an injunction, Mullen stated that he was, "80% confident that they will, at least, give you more time to pay it."

Mullen, a lawyer from Quincy spoke to the Congress, citing three main reasons why he feels the students should be represented. Mullen disagrees with the "manner in which it was done," "why were not all of the students charged the $125 or the $62.50," and "why- what purpose will this serve.

In a discussion on the subject of how long a time-frame students have been given to pay their bill, Mullen stated that it is similar "to receiving a Mastercard bill in the middle of the billing period, saying that you must come up with 20% of the bill. That's not fair." Mullen said that students are expected to come up with $125 within 16 or so days. "That is not enough time," he said.

The second point Mullen addressed was why were only 5,100 of the total students assessed. "It does not have a broad-based spread." Mullen also questioned why full-time students were charged $125, and part-time students $62.50. Another point, which Mullen mentioned on this subject, is why are only half of the school's students being assessed. He did not understand why the night students who attend BSC were not being fined similarly.

Joseph Chicarelli, Vice President of Administration and Finance, stated that the night students are a "self-supporting institution of sorts." The night school is a separate operation, and runs off of a separate budget; "Teachers from the night classes are funded," said Chicarelli, "from monies received by night school tuitions." He said this is important and valid points, but why only the day school students also thought that there were simple answers to these points.

The final reason Mullen stated "We will have to see where this as to why the students should be represented involves the question An announcement has been made by the administration that "The fee may be necessary, but an open forum has been asked. He stated that the basic foyer of the Campus Center. The underlying issue is fundamental purpose of this meeting will be fairness; allowing students to be treated in a fair and reasonable manner. The nightmare has become a reality
Student workers where other important fees are in store for the college

To the Editor:
I found another letter with a bill enclosed for $125. This is from the BCC Commerical Services. It states that they did not receive 100% of the dinner. When I bought lunch at the store it was $100. Therefore, I have an extra charge of $25 on my account. I believe this is not the way to do business. I would like to have my money returned. I have been at the store about 3 times and I never received everything I ordered. I have never had a good meal at the store. I think they should be more careful with their business.

About 30 years ago, abortions were illegal. This made it more difficult and dangerous for women. Today, they are legal and women are able to get safe abortions. However, there are still some states that do not allow abortion. This is because some people believe that abortion is wrong. Abortion is a personal choice, and we should respect that.

There are many reasons why someone might choose to have an abortion. Some women might feel that they are not ready to be parents, or they might be in a dangerous situation. Other women might choose to have an abortion because they do not want to have another child. Abortion is a personal choice, and we should respect that.

However, there are some people who believe that abortion is wrong. They think that abortion is murder and that women should not have the right to choose whether or not to have an abortion. These people believe that abortion is a sin and that it is wrong to kill unborn children.

I believe that abortion is a personal choice, and we should respect that. Women should have the right to choose whether or not to have an abortion. It is their body and their decision. We should not tell them what to do.

The students were never given the opportunity to not pay their bill

Andrea M. Morris

They were never given the opportunity to not pay their bill. The administration has decided to not give the students a chance to protest. They have not given the students a chance to speak up or to have their voices heard.

The administration is making a decision that is not fair. They are not giving the students a chance to be heard. They are not giving the students a chance to think about their decision. They are making a decision that is not fair to the students.

I believe that the administration should give the students a chance to protest. They should give the students a chance to think about their decision. They should give the students a chance to be heard.

More warnings about the threat of the AIDS virus

We have all heard the warnings about AIDS, yet people still deny that they are real. In the February issue of U. National College, the student body learned about the dangers of AIDS. It is reported that a study of 20,000 individuals showed that every 1,000 college students test positive for the AIDS virus.

As responsible college students and future educators, we must act on these grave findings. AIDS is a rapidly spreading disease in our society.

There are still many questions unanswered about AIDS. It is known that it is spread by having sex with someone infected with the virus or by sharing needles and syringes with an infected person. AIDS cannot be transmitted through casual contact, including kissing, hugging, or sharing a swimming pool or screen.

People most at risk are I.V. drug users, homosexual and bisexual men, and intravenous drug users. This means most anyone who may be involved in these lifestyles. AIDS does not discriminate.

Until a cure can stop this horrifying disease we must act to prevent it from spreading. This includes not engaging in those activities.

As college students, us too can play an important part of our social life and still not put ourselves at risk. We have a chance to reduce the number of lives lost as a result of AIDS.

The Comment, Thursday, February 16, 1989

Pay with protest is offered as an alternate possibility

The only way to know if you are safe is by having an AIDS blood test. However, don't be scared of donating blood. You can be an AIDS warrior! It is not harmful to do so. Needles are destroyed once they are used so it is impossible to get AIDS from donating blood because supplies are tested for the AIDS antibody.

There is an AIDS hotline available to help educate people. Please call (800)-342-9442 for more information.

Rally participants needed to receive more support

To the Editor:

For those who didn't hear President Ford's message the other day, we are grateful for his efforts. We are grateful for his efforts in making people aware of the dangers of AIDS and the need for research into a cure. We are grateful for his efforts in making people aware of the need for safe sex practices.

Many students were trying to listen to Mr. Ford, but others were getting frustrated with him any way. Students want a man who has spent 26 years as president to not be the way to get their attention. We are on the right side of the street. We don't have to step on their lawn.

President Ronald Reagan, as he was recently elected to the White House, said he would be committed to higher education. The President, and the Trustees, may not have the same goals for the students as the planners of this school. It seems to the people who think that the Commissioners of Massachusetts should be committed to higher public education.

A personal choice

By Mari H. Blake

About 60 years ago, abortions were illegal. This was the time when I was born. In my mind, it just means they were illegal. But abortion has always been the right of the individual. If a woman is in a situation where she must have an abortion, she should have that right.

Abortion is legal today. They are performed in hospitals and clinics. The choice to have an abortion is a personal one. Even doctors and nurses agree that no one has the right to dictate what a woman should do with her body.

I believe that whether a woman is raped or the victim of incest, a woman has the right to choose if she wants to have an abortion. If a woman knows what she is doing? Is this abortion illegal? That doesn't exist, it just means they weren't legal.

For a teen-age mother-to-be, each of her situations would be different. She would make her decision, not anybody else's. A personal choice in her life.

The Students never been given the opportunity to not pay their bill

All in all, over 3,000 students were denied and given right to protest at the idea and concept which they deemed "wrong." Overall, the idea that the cop will not take your money is completely new. The administration should be commended on their efforts to listen to the students and "let" them protest their bills.

President Rondileau said, "seems kinda strange," to the idea that we would pay for our college, but not pay for our student ID card. We, the staff of The Comment, are on the right side of the street. We are grateful that The Institute for Technology, and The Institute for Agriculture, is doing something to change our way of living.

Now, I know that we should all protest this idea, that we should not pay for our student ID card. It is a waste of time and money. The idea of not paying for our student ID card is a waste of time and money.

The administration "conveniently" decided to "let" the students protest. The cop will not take your money, but we should not pay for our student ID card. The idea of not paying for our student ID card is a waste of time and money.

Hands-on learning of art history in France

By Calais Andrews

Last week it was just a scavenger hunt, but this week it was the real game. Many have participated in it, in many ways, and have heard about it, or were sponsors of the Brookline State College Bowl, the annual event sponsored by the Campus Center Program Committee.

The final week was the play-offs and finals. The second round is the Brooklyn Dodgers defeated the Magiciens, and the Trebelettes defeated the Power Hangman team. The finals were held Wednesday. The two teams involved were the Brooklyn Dodgers and the Trebelettes. The winning team is the Trebelettes after the closest game of the whole season.

What exactly is the College Bowl? It is a game of trivia recall. There are two teams with four members each, and the participants have five to seven seconds to answer, depending on whether it's a yes or no question. It has been called "an exciting dance, for the answers and Scottish rustic entertainment." The favorite of the audience was a piece called "Cockney Night." The dance was well done, for it was an old-fashioned dance, challenging the classic beliefs of what it was.

Professor of Art

From July 2 to the 22, an art history study tour of France will be led by Dr. Robert Darr of the Art Department, Bridgewater State College. A successful one, with the same itinerary, took place in 1987. It is intended to reach even more students and to offer again this summer. However, this program will be a special one in France because of the celebration of the Bicentennial of the French Revolution. The three week tour will begin in southern France, starting with a couple of days in Nice followed by a motorcoach trip through the countryside of Provence, with stops at Antibes, Aix-en-Provence, Arles, Avignon, and Nimes. Modern museums such as the Modern Museum in Antibes will contrast with the ancient Roman and medieval sites visited dating from the time of the French Revolution. The tour will continue on to the Loire Valley to visit several of the magnificent castles, including Chambord, Chenonceaux, and Amboise. The tour will continue on to the picturesque medieval city of Mont St. Michel, to Bayeux to see the famous tapestry from the times of William the Conqueror, the beautiful seaport of Honfleur, and the city of Rouen known for its Gothic monuments.

Along the way, there will be a stop at Paris. The group will visit Giverny, the home and gardens of the Impressionist painter, Claude Monet. These gardens are so lush and beautiful that the participants in the 1987 tour often went for a walk with Monet in mind.
Jazz dance class
For those who want to dance

Did you go see the performance by the Boston Ballet and think to yourself, 'I think I want to dance?' If you did, here is an opportunity to learn. Bridgewater State College is offering the class for the third year.

The class is offered Tuesday and Thursday nights from 8:30-9:30 in the Kelly gym.

Thuy Cook, who has been teaching dancing and movement courses for 15 years, is teaching the class again, this semester. Cook has been instructing dance classes for five years and has worked for numerous establishments. One of the most well-known is the Junior Miss Pageant. She will be teaching a variety of styles which vary from jazz to simple ballet, to the best of modern music. This type of dance builds strength, coordination, and helps improve, club dancing.

This is not an aerobics class, but it does offer the exercise benefits similar to the ones that aerobics has. The class is free and promises to be fun. All are encouraged to attend.

Summer art history tour offered in France

Although considered a highlight of the trip, the group will visit such outstanding places as the Louvre (with its recently opened glass pyramid) and the Musée d'Orsay, the Picasso Museum, the Pompidou Center, and the Rodin Museum.

The crew will see the city's other well-known sites such as the Cathedral of Notre Dame, Ste. Chapelle, the Eiffel Tower, and Montmartre. Day excursions from Paris will go to the palace and gardens of Versailles and the Gothic cathedral of Chartres, called by Rodin, "the Acropolis of France.

Participants on the tour may earn up to six credits on the undergraduate or graduate level, or simply enjoy the tour by auditing. The fee of $2087, covers air fares, land transportation, hotels, museum admissions, continental breakfasts, and certain other expenses. Additional tuition fees range from $375 to $525 depending on student status. Further information, including a daily itinerary, may be obtained by contacting Dr. Robert Dunn, Acting Chairperson of the Art Department, Bridgewater State College, Bridgewater, MA 02325, (508) 697-1359. The deadline for registration is April 10.

Will AIDS kill a romance?
Contributed by Connie Peterson
Reprinted from The Sophian

He holds her gently in his arms and whispers softly, "Roxanne, there's something I've wanted to tell you for a long time now, but I've still had the courage..."

"Oh, Delbert, ask me..." "Roxanne, do you have a reservoir tip lubricated condom with nonoxynol-9 spermicide with you?"

You probably won't hear this on the next segment of Dallas, but you should. It's going to be difficult to talk about "safer sex" for those of us who are sexually active, but if we are to protect ourselves from the AIDS virus, we must learn. For the vast majority of people, sexual activity can be exciting, but it can also be difficult, but this carries an extra burden for college age women and men - many of whom are just beginning to be sexually active.

If you are sexually active, or contemplating sexual activity...be your own best friend; think ahead of time; about what you might do in a given situation, or what you might say to your partner about "safer sex." One way to begin is, "It's important to me that we protect ourselves and use a condom." Condoms and rubber dams (a thin piece of latex recommended for oral-genital contact) don't make sex risk free (only abstinence is risk free) but properly used they do make sex a lot safer. For further information on condoms or the AIDS virus, contact Health Service's Barbara The Comment Thursday, February 16, 1989

Sox disappoint

The Chronicle Thursday, February 16, 1989 15

Gymnasts finish with four straight

A very important factor to the team's success was assistant coach Sharon Henry, according to Kelleher. She said that she provided an excellent role model and that her attitude was "inspirational." Her first year as assistant coach, said Kelleher, was a great help.

Kelleher said that she hopes most of the team will return next year.

The team is still in the process of rebuilding, due to the transfer of some key players. "The team is not as strong this year," said Kelleher. "But we have some good players in the younger ranks who will bring us back to our former glory."

Indecivato may change plea concerning State charges

By Bryan Hayes

Comment staff

Gerald T. Indecivato, the former president of Bridgewater State College, will allegedly change his not guilty plea, communicating charges, and perjury.

If Indecivato does this, he will face a felony sentence that the 30 months now mandated by statute. Indecivato, DiCarlo, both freshmen, Swedish continues to score, receiving an 8.5 on the vault, an 8.4 on the uneven bars, an 8.0 on the balance beam, and only two points off the meet Record in 1985.

The terms of his latest sentence will bring upon his shoulders yet another legal action, and the possibility of imprisonment.

Kevin DiCarlo of the swimming and diving team spoke about his decision to change his plea.

"No way, no way we won't," said DiCarlo. "I have my heart set on the job and I'm not going to let anyone take it from me."
