Women's rugby continues winning streak

By Roni Davis

The Bridgewater State Women's Rugby club is off to their best start in a while. Saturday, the Bridgewater team left the field with the exact score of 14-0 over Maine.

Saturday's conditions were far from perfect as the teams battled in BSC's field with winds making running slow. BSC did come away again when Rockie Debin Helferend, playing in her first game, came out for it.

This win showed team involvement all over the field. Co-captains Duncan, Kelly Martin, Gina Aslo, and Margaret Hana said they all worked well.

The pick, however, also complimented well against Maine. Co-captain Jose Benjamin, co-captain Margaret Black, and the rest of the team scored 4 points.

Women's lacrosse defeated despite outstanding plays

By Angela Comello

The Women's Lacrosse Team lost a good game against UMass Boston as the dominant, University of Massachusetts Boston, defeated Bridgewater State University.

In the first half, it was evident that the defense was not up to par, and the outcome of the game was not in doubt. The game ended 11-6 in favor of UMass Boston.

Most of the game was played on the boards, with UMass Boston at the top of the table. The Bridgewater defense was not up to par, and the outcome of the game was not in doubt.

Conchieri announces his bid to become SGA President

By Byron Hayes

Conchieri is currently the Treasurer of the Student Government Association. His two goals if elected as President are to increase student involvement in the SGA and to increase transparency and accountability within the association.

Christopher Conchieri, another SGA Presidential candidate, stated that he will run for President on the ticket of "di Pluffs." He wants to increase student involvement in the SGA by providing more opportunities for students to participate in decision-making processes. He also plans to improve the communication between the SGA and the student body by increasing the frequency and effectiveness of SGA meetings.

Conchieri stated that he has experience and background in areas which will be beneficial to the SGA. He has a degree in business administration and has worked in various executive positions, including as a national sales manager.

Conchieri expressed his desire to work with students to improve the SGA's relationship with other student organizations and to promote a culture of cooperation and collaboration across campus groups.

The Financial Aid Office has announced that the April deadline for applications for aid has been extended to April 17. This extension was made due to the increased number of students requesting financial aid and due to the need for the Office to process more applications in a shorter amount of time.

The Office is closed to the public on Thursdays, starting April 6, so students should contact the Financial Aid Office at 697-1341. A complete financial aid file consists of a processed financial aid form, a Bridgeport Financial Aid application, and appropriate Federal Tax forms.

Students who are interested in applying for financial aid are encouraged to contact the Financial Aid Office to discuss their options and to set up an appointment for an interview.

BSC Clean-up Day rescheduled

The Bridgewater State College Clean-up Day, which was originally scheduled for April 8, has been postponed until this Saturday, April 15, due to the inclement weather experienced this past weekend. Volunteers are once again needed to make this event a success. The clean-up will take place on Saturday from 9 a.m. until 1 p.m. The Coalition for Responsibility and Ethics in Education will be working in part with the Facilities Department in the effort to clean-up the BSC campus.

All work items, such as bags, rakes, etc., will be provided. Those interested in being a part of the event should report to the garage behind Harrington Hall. Work crews will then be assembled and assigned to various parts of the campus.

CRESH is seeking people to turn out and participate in this event. Even if students can only give an hour or two, they are needed. They ask that those who show up, and get the campus looking good for upcoming events and the rest of the spring.

Financial Aid deadline extended

The Financial Aid Office has announced that the April 3 deadline for applying for financial aid has been extended until April 17. The reason for the extension of the deadline was due to the increased staff time associated with implementing the financial aid budget. This will allow more people to apply, evaluate each application, and to allow more time for processing.

The Financial Aid forms will be available in the Financial Aid Office, 273 Student Government Association.

Concheri announces his bid to become SGA President

By Bryon Hayes

Concheri states that in the four years he has been here, he has commented, been a resident hall student, attended night classes, and worked as a resident assistant.

He states that this diversity has taught him "to appreciate the various aspects of the BSC experience."

Concheri feels this has broadened his view of "many of the student wants, needs, concerns, and expectations of this diverse student body."

Anderson announces plans to run for Student Trustee

By Bryon Hayes

Treasurer and current SGA President Craig Rothberg.

Christopher Concheri another SGA Presidential candidate Craig Hall, in that "Hall supports the utilizing of the negative check-off system as a means of taxing the students, on behalf of MassPIRG." Concheri states that many parents and students do not agree with him on the back of their bill and pay the fee without knowing for what the organization stands or where their money is going.

While I support MassPIRG's agenda," Concheri said, "I believe that any use of the negative check-off system is both unfair and dishonest."

Anderson states that in the four years he has been on campus, he has worked with both the Student Government Association and the Massachusetts Student Association.

President Anderson announces his bid to become the fifth and final candidate who will seek election to the position of Student Trustee.

After last Monday's Dedham jailbreak, the largest escape from the 172-year old building, an inmate said Monday many inmates were able to flee the prison. Inmates tried to spread the news.

His remarks came as new bars were welded across the windows and the jail's boss, Norfolk County Sheriff Clifford Marshall, continued to blame the state for the security breakdown.

Patrick Pearce, the Chairman of the Congress, has announced that he will run for election to the position of Student Trustee. He believes that he has the qualities which the trustees must possess. They are "able to lead, to be found by the students to make important decisions, and have the integrity to stand alone as the only student on the board and present the interests of the students.

Pearce feels that he is one of the three qualities which make a trustee.

Pearce, a member of the Class of 1986, has served on the Congress for the past two years, and has been on the Board for the past year. He is also a member of a CREAM, Sigma Pi fraternity, and has spoken on numerous college and investment issues on the BSC campus.

He says he has been involved in Student Government because he felt that the matters needed to be heard, and that they remained unknown, decisions would be made without inputs. Speaking up for the students is his leadership," says Pearce. He also says that he has always been involved in both the debate and the political questions and ideas on campus. Pearce calls on the leadership offer.

His main point is that all students must know the potential of leadership, and that one can't "just stand there and do nothing." He feels that if a person is afraid to speak out on an issue concerning the students, then that person should not represent the students. Pearce states that the position of student trustee is one that must be "an effective yes-man." He feels the student trustee is one who must be able to act to keep the students informed of the problems and solutions to the problems.

Congressman Tom Magee, a junior from the Class of 1986, has announced that he will seek election to the position of Student Trustee. Magee states that he wants to let the students know for what the position of Student Trustee means, and he wants Magee to be the trustee.

Magee says, "I found that many people did not know what the position of student trustee means when I asked them. Magee's view of the student trustee is a student representative on the board. The Board of Trustees is the Governor's board to oversee the state. During emergencies, they're helping. They're involved in the state. They ended up in car washes and car washes in Hawaii." Magee also feels that the trustee will have to be mindful of the students when they vote on the board. Magee states that there was manipulation of the student body by some trustees. Magee feels that the student trustee could be the trustee because of the students and the students. Magee adds that Magee's view of the student trustee is a student representative on the board. The Board of Trustees must have the knowledge of the trustees to lead the students.

May the worst man win

The Student Government Association's Primary Elections are still a few weeks away, but the candidates have already begun to campaign. My advice to the candidates is to try to campaign with the final exams in mind.

Most candidates' paraphernalia has been up for only one week, but in five months, most races will be over. There will be a lot of campaign themes and rhetoric, but in the end, the candidates will have to prove their abilities to the students.

May the worst man win.
May the worst man win

The Student Government Association’s Primary Elections are still in progress and the results will be announced by the end of the month along with the final election results. But the candidates and their campaign committees have already taken a level that can be described in one word: ugly.

Most candidates’ paraphernalia has been up for only two weeks, but in this short time, most names have been ripped down by supporters, the candidates, or other such people. They sign have been decorated, defaced, and destroyed.

A walk across campus reveals much of this. Signs in the Marta Hall building have been defaced with Nazi-like symbols, and various artistic styles of writing and phrases. Many signs have been ripped down in the residence halls as well as in the administration buildings. This is not to mention the problems with candidates’ email addresses and responses.

In addition, many candidates have been ignoring the problems. In fact, there is no one who is willing to admit the existence of these problems. So the candidates will just win.

Concern over food service pays off

To the Editor:

In the April 6, 1989, issue of The Comment, Dan Sheehan wrote an article concerning the food service company. Unfortunately, the article highlighted the negative aspects of the food service. I believe that the article was written to gain sympathy and support for the students who are unhappy with the food service.

I agree that the food service is not what it should be. However, I think that the students who are unhappy with the food service should do something about it rather than complaining about it. For example, I think that the students who are unhappy with the food service should start a petition or a letter writing campaign to the president of the university or to the board of trustees.

I also think that the students who are unhappy with the food service should start looking for a new food service company. If they do this, then they will be able to get a better food service.

Mr. Zeoli's greatest concern was that about the policy...

Alcoholic beverage advertising questioned

The college's Alcoholic Beverage Policy has come under fire this week, with this newspaper questioning the advisability of a motion in the policy which states that "Alcoholic beverage advertising is not permitted on campus or in institutional media including that which promotes events as well as product advertising.

The Concerner's argument is that the policy stifles the First Amendment rights of students, which guarantee freedom of the press and equal protection under the law, respectively.

Club Soda is a tasty treat for audience

By Cailie Andrews

The Campus Center Program Committee sponsored this year's Club Soda. The three comedians, who headlined the Wednesday evening act, and the audience agreed that the evening was successful. The comedians performed material geared towards what they thought that evening would be like. They both recommended that people don't do what they think it will pickled in one up because she thought it was a gourd and held it up to her ear. She held "Oh, baby" instead of laughing.

Trolling around the audience, just by being there. He has been told that he has a fast comedy. What an interesting concept, having the face for a career. Trolling thought, I'm going to support any seeing that he could be done in sewage. That plaguing would be just in a suit.

Walt Collins summarized the crowd with his jokes about the oil spill over more like the Parker. He recalled the typical first line. His child raised by leaps by understanding only a career. After the events that, one would become the "ostensible" and do anything in sight.

Collins shared with the group his most embarrassing moment: when his fake gun came up behind him and tickled him. At the same event, he confessed, he embarrassed the laughs have to wait 'til next morning for Club Soda to return. For now, keep smiling!

The Campus Diner Program sponsored this year's Club Soda. The three comedians who headlined Wednesday's act were Barbara Swanson, Steve Titling, and Wolly Collins, all of whom were native to Maine.

Barbara Swanson, who claimed she was overly, meal of comedy in hand, headlined the show. Her big gag was that she could see them in a mirror. After the seventh date, she decided to the beach in the autumn. That plunging would be a perfect moment.

Wolly Collins entertained the audience with his jokes about the auto. He made some remarks about the ugly car. She was recommended that people don't do what she did. She thought it was a good idea to try to reconstruct a painting; what an interesting concept, having the face for a career. Trilling thought. Nobel prize winner
Lorenz dies at age 85

"The best thing a father can do for his children is love their mother."

He was a man of genius, the founding father of ethology, and he's dead. Konrad Lorenz, who is best remembered by psychologists and psychology students worldwide, died February 28. He was 85 years old. The 1973 Nobel Prize recipient was best known for his discovery of the process known as imprinting, the rapid and most irreversible learning process that occurs in early childhood, bonding animals to their biological mothers. But Lorenz showed the process could be changed, demonstrating that mallard ducklings, for example, would happily trail after a human who greeted them shortly after birth and imitated quacking.

To millions of his followers, Lorenz was affectionately known as the "father of the gray geese." His seminal work on animal behavior earned him the nickname "the father of the gray geese." His most controversial findings suggested that innate and instinctive behavior in animals, such as aggression, may be instinctive in humans as well.

"Good-bye old You're 23 and already bemoaning the fact that you're uncertain as to the right career choice. Don't despair! Although most people assumed that Albert Schweitzer always wanted to be a physician and help the less fortunate in French West Africa, he switched career tracks several times before beginning medical studies at age thirty. He started as a musician, then a theologian, and later a physician. Seeing that he still hadn't found his niche, he made an important discovery during his medical training. He was about 30 when he dropped out of medical school to become a lawyer and started his own practice. Determined to have two careers, he opened a law office and practiced law. He was a very successful lawyer."

Experiencing a sense of control over the work environment increases job satisfaction. To some extent, you have the opportunity to participate in job-related decisions, to control the pace and scheduling of your work, and to the extent that your job allows you the opportunity for independent creative thought and action, translates to an enormous degree, your feelings of job satisfaction or dissatisfaction. Pareto's 80-20 rule says that 20 percent of the individuals in an organization do 80 percent of the work. Learn to collaborate with fellow employees and management, to be enthusiastic about your job, and to see the positive aspects of your work and you'll sense an abundance of job satisfaction and significant decline of work stress.

AIDS survey

The three questions that were answered most frequently were:
1. Are you a heterosexual male? Yes/No
2. Are you a heterosexual female? Yes/No
3. Do you have AIDS? Yes/No

At the present time, the only way to check AIDS is by having sexual intercourse with an infected person, using the same IV needles, and a mother passing it on to her child. The three questions that were the most often and most frequently answered were:

85% of the males and 22% of the males answered incorrectly.
85% of the males and 1% of the females answered incorrectly.
5% of the males and 5% of the females were ages 18-29.
5% of the males and 3% of the females were ages 30-34.
9% of the males and 21% of the females were ages 35-39.
31% of the males and 12% of the females were ages 40-44.
25% of the males and 31% of the females were ages 45-49.
25% of the males and 31% of the females were ages 50-54.
25% of the males and 31% of the females were ages 55-59.
25% of the males and 31% of the females were ages 60-64.
25% of the males and 31% of the females were ages 65 or older.

AIDS survey

Those that answered false, 68% got one wrong and 32% got two or five wrong.

The three questions most frequently answered incorrectly were:

1. You cannot tell by looking at someone whether he or she has the AIDS virus.
   62% of the females and 38% of the males answered incorrectly.
   92% of the students, 8% of the staff and faculty. 62% were ages 18-22, 23-30. 15% were 31 and above.
   By looking at someone, you cannot tell if they have AIDS.

2. It is possible to catch the AIDS virus from someone by kissing, sharing the same drinking glass, using the same toilet seat or makeup, or touching doorknobs.
   32% of the females and 69% of the males answered incorrectly.
   92% of the students, 8% of the staff and faculty. 62% were ages 18-22, 31% were ages 23-30, 8% were 31 and above.
   At the present time, the only ways to catch AIDS is by having sexual intercourse with an infected person, using the same I.V. needles, and a mother passing it on to her unborn child.

3. You can get the AIDS virus from donating your blood.
   This question was the most frequently incorrectly answered.
   58% of the females and 42% of the males answered incorrectly.
   95% of the students, 5% of the staff and faculty. 62% were ages 18-22, 32% were ages 23-30, 5% were 31 and above.
   They test your blood for AIDS, you cannot get AIDS from giving your blood.

Rain postpones Baseball team's games...again

By Bryan Hayes

Almost all of the sporting events which were supposed to play May 3 at Clinton High School, Westeyen High School, and Bridgewater State College were postponed.

The only game the team played during the past week was one against Eastern Nazarene College on April 4. Bridgewater won the game by a score of 11-1. Leading the scoring for the Bears was outfielder Mike Collins, who went 4 for 5 and had nine runs batted-in. Ted Crane, 3 for 4 and two RBIs, also was a亮点

On May 1, the team was scheduled to play a doubleheader at Boston State College, but that game was postponed because of rain.

Almost all of the sporting events which were supposed to play this past weekend were no exception. Their last five events which were supposed to underway and the Visigoths season started Saturday April 4. Bridgewater won the game by a score of 21-8. The only game the team has split their first two games, the Visigoths attacked with Mike Petrillo hustling the ball down for four points. Dan Petrillo allowed Dave Colby to keep Newport from scoring and back Bruce Bear's third baseman Dave Enos also had a three-run home run. In the second inning, thanks to Erios' home run, which scored three runs. Chris Foglietta. The scrum Regained the lead for good by striking out all nine men to the plate, scoring a total of 15 runs to go on to a 18-6 lead. This was capped by Pat's home run, which scored three runs. Eastern Connecticut would go on to two runs in the top of their sixth inning, as would the Bears in the bottom half of the night.

Women's rugby continues winning streak

By Ronda Davis

The Bridgewater State Women's Rugby Team opened their season on Sunday, Feb. 11, against Assumption College. The game was played at the University of Massachusetts-Lowell and ended with a 24-0 shutout victory for the Bears.

The match was played in the cold, windy conditions typical of New England in February. Despite the difficult conditions, the Bears were able to dominate the game from start to finish. Each player on the team made a significant contribution to the victory, and the team's teamwork and coordination were evident throughout the match.

In addition to the win, the Bears also celebrated the return of several key players who had been out due to injury. The team's successful season so far is a testament to their hard work and dedication. The next match is scheduled for March 11, and the Bears are looking forward to continuing their winning streak.

State House rally

Yesterday, a small but determined group of students gathered at the State House over the budget cuts and for the right to education. The students stood together, holding signs and banners, as they listened to speeches and songs from various organizations.

At the rally, students spoke out against the cuts to education funding, arguing that these cuts would harm their chances of success in life. They called on lawmakers to prioritize education in their budget decisions and to work together to find a solution.

Speakers at the rally included electoral officials, representatives of the American Student Association, and various student leaders. The rally was held outside the State House, drawing a large crowd of supporters.

The rally ended with a group photo of the students and leaders, followed by a march through downtown Boston. The students continued their efforts to raise awareness about the budget cuts and to demand a fair education system for all students.

Ricciardi wants communication

By Byran Hayes
Staff writer

Dr. Bob Ricciardi, President of Bridgewater State College, announced last week that he would be making a major change to the communication system on campus.

Ricciardi said that the current system was not effective and that students and faculty were not always able to get the information they needed. He said that the new system would be more user-friendly and would make it easier for people to find the information they need.

The new system will be implemented in the fall and will include a new website and mobile app for students and faculty. Ricciardi said that he was confident that the new system would be a great improvement over the old one.

If there is one word which Ricciardi uses to describe his position and what he hopes to accomplish, it is communication. He states that many students feel like they never have an open line of communication with their professors, and he hopes that the new system will change this. He says that he wants to make sure that students and faculty feel included and valued in the decision-making process.

Ricciardi comes to the board by way of the Alumni Association. He was selected to be the President of the Association, and he was then recommended as the President of the University by the Board of Trustees. Ricciardi is a strong leader, and he has been able to bring many changes to the college.

When asked if he believes the new system will be beneficial, Ricciardi replied, "I am confident that this new system will be successful, and I look forward to seeing the positive impact it will have on our campus." He goes on to say that he is excited about the potential for the new system to improve communication and to make the college a more welcoming place for all students.

The new system is sure to be an important change for Bridgewater State College, and it is clear that Ricciardi is dedicated to making sure that the college is a place where everyone feels valued and included.
